VOL. 75 NO. 86 VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1929—20 PAGES PRICE FIVE CENTS

MACDONALD GOES TO NEW YORK TO ADDRESS 5,000

Mail Planes Are To Start Aklavik Service Nov. 26

Airmen Ready Also to Fly Passengers and Freight From Edmonton to North of Arctic Circle; Some Points Along Route Will Have Weekly Service.

Ottawa, Oct. 10 (Canadian Press)—November 26 is the date set tentatively for the inauguration of the regular air mail service between Edmonton and Aklavik, at the mouth of the Mackenzie River, north of the Arctic Circle. The route will embrace many intermediate points, a number of which will enjoy a weekly service, while others will obtain mail monthly.

The Commercial Airways have the contract.

In addition to the mail carried, the company may engage in passenger and freight traffic as a side line, but the mails must not be subordinate to that element.

The new service will supersede all other mail services in that area.

Soviet Aviators To Fly Along B.C. Coast Saturday

Craig, Alaska, Oct. 10.—Due to lack of mechanical equipment and the infinite care being exercised by the Russian aviators, the work of installing the new motor in their plane, "Land of the Soviets," en route from Moscow to New York, has progressed more slowly than was anticipated, it was learned here.

As a result, it was not expected the installation would be completed until late Friday, which would delay the flight from Waterfall, Dall Island, along the British Columbia coast to Seattle until at least Saturday.

ANTI-DUMPING DUTY FIELD MADE WIDER

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—In future the special dumping clause will be applied on goods coming into Canada whenever the price is below the fair market price in the country in which they are produced. This was announced by Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue, to-day. The new order will take effect October 15.

In the past there was a leeway of five per cent before the dumping clause was invoked. For example, if a United States firm sold goods to a Canadian firm at five per cent less than the goods would be sold to United States customers, the goods on coming into Canada would bear the customs impost on the full market value, but would not be hit by the dumping clause. Under the new order the goods will be liable for the full duty, and in addition the special duty equal to the full amount of the difference between the fair market price and the price they were sold for.

QUANTITIES AFFECTED

The new order is expected to have a very far-reaching effect in increasing protection for Canadian producers. It only applies to goods imported when the same class of goods are produced in Canada. It is claimed considerable quantities of goods have been exported to Canada at prices coming within the five per cent leeway, and therefore avoided the dumping clause.

The regulation will still be much less drastic than the one in the United States. The Canadian dumping clause only applies to reductions up to fifteen per cent of the fair market value. Reductions above that amount are not affected, whereas the United States clause goes up to seventy-five per cent reduction.

WEATHER DELAYS FIRST TEST OF BIG DIRIGIBLE R-100

London, Oct. 10—The Air Ministry early to-day announced bad weather would prevent the new British dirigible R-100 being hauled out for its first test, as had been projected to-day.

CANADIANS DEPORTED

Three Men Returned From Honolulu For Illegal Entry There

Returned to Canada for illegal entry into United States territory, three Canadian citizens passed through Victoria this morning aboard the motorship Aorangi en route from Honolulu, where they were apprehended, to Vancouver.

One is from Ontario, one from the Prairies and another from British Columbia.

It is thought they crossed the border between Canada and the United States and from there went to Honolulu by way of San Francisco. There were in close confinement aboard the ship while she was in dock here this morning although they were given the freedom of mixing with the third-class passengers during the six-day voyage from the Hawaiian Islands.

CLEARINGS HERE SHOW GAIN OF 45 PER CENT

Victoria bank clearings for the week ending to-day show a gain of within a fraction of 45 per cent over the clearings total for the corresponding week of last year.

The official figures issued by the Clearing House at noon to-day are:

Week ending to-day	$3,937,096
Same week last year	2,695,636
Increase	$1,291,460

Clearings for the week ending last Thursday also showed a big gain. The total for the week ending October 3, 1929, was $3,448,129, compared with $2,849,383 in the corresponding week of 1928.

Vancouver Death Is Investigated

Vancouver, Oct. 10—George Kuculyn, fifty-year-old Austrian laborer, died in a hospital here this morning from head injuries suffered several hours earlier. He was found half way down the front stairway of a rooming house, unconscious and intoxicated, with a bleeding wound at the back of the skull.

Police investigating the case say there is a possibility of foul play.

Kuculyn had been working at Port Alberni until a few weeks ago.

WAGGONER JAILED FOR FIFTEEN YEARS

New York, Oct. 10—Charles Delos Waggoner, Telluride, Colo., bank president, was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment to-day on his plea of guilty to mail fraud in connection with a scheme to obtain $500,000 from six New York banks by means of forged authorization papers.

Bureau Draws Winter Visit Of Delegates

In line with its efforts to build up the winter tourist business, the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau has succeeded in arranging for 500 delegates to the American Wood Preservers convention to include Victoria in their programme in January.

The meeting will be held in Seattle and will be attended by officials of creosoting companies and railway engineers. The bureau wrote to officers of the association and suggested a trip to Victoria, and received a reply stating that the delegates would come to the capital and spend at least twelve hours in the city.

SCULLIN SEEN AS NEW PREMIER OF AUSTRALIA

Trend of Opinion Favors Labor Government, Says Visitor Here To-day

Business Depression and British Labor Success May Influence Vote

Trend of political opinion in Australia is that James H. Scullin will be the next premier of Australia, according to Thomas C. McPherson, manager of the United States Rubber Company, with headquarters at Sydney, who reached here to-day on board the motor liner Aorangi.

"The belief is general in Australia that the Labor Party with James Scullin as its leader, will be strong enough to defeat the Coalition government led by Premier Stanley Bruce," said Mr. McPherson when questioned about Australia's forecast of Saturday's election. Even with the support of the Country Party, Premier Bruce seemed to have lost ground, he said.

FOUGHT STRONG CAMPAIGN

The Labor Party has put on a strong campaign with Edward Theodore, former Premier of Queensland, delivering hammer blows as the chief lieutenant of James Scullin, during the Labor leader's illness.

"There has been a general depression of business recently in Australia and that is expected to work against the Bruce Government," said Mr. McPherson. Australia is a Labor country and the success of the Labor Party in Great Britain may influence the vote.

There will be no change of tariff policy in Australia, whichever way the election goes, in Mr. McPherson's opinion.

"Protective tariff walls in Australia have been built to stay," he said. "Any government that had the courage to lower tariffs in Australia could not survive."

Indirect Vote In U.S. Not Test On Free Philippines

Washington, Oct. 10.—The Senate to-day rejected the Broussard amendment to the tariff bill, which would have declared this country's intention to grant independence to the Philippine soon and call an international conference to agree to respect that independence.

The vote was sixty-three to nineteen.

As yesterday, when the Senate rejected the King amendment to grant independence after the islands had formulated a constitution, opponents to-day said the vote could not be interpreted as a test on the independence question.

Some of them said that, while favoring independence, they voted against the amendment because they did not believe such an important matter should become involved in consideration of the tariff.

CHIEF OF POLICE DENIES HE MADE ALLEGED REMARK

Vancouver Officer Says Policewoman Treated Fairly Before She Resigned

Vancouver, Oct. 10.—Allegations that Chief of Police W. J. Bingham had told Mrs. L. D. Harris, superannuated woman police inspector, that it would be better for her to resign or "get what Mrs. Judge MacGill got" was contained in a statement signed by Mrs. Harris and presented to the Vancouver Police Commission this forenoon by a delegation from the Central Ratepayers' Association of the city.

Vigorous denial he had made such a statement was voiced by Chief Bingham, who declared that "although a harassed chief of police, I have never forgotten to be a gentleman."

The statement presented by the ratepayers' delegation stated that when a number of officers were superannuated, the chief had asked Mrs. Harris to remain in the department, that she would be able to continue in service for about ten years, and that he would appoint two women to assist her. On January 21, while going to work, Mrs. Harris broke her wrist, and on March 1, when she reported for duty, Chief Bingham, according to the report, asked her if she wished to resign. She was eventually retired May 1.

The delegation asked she be allowed compensation for her medical expenses, as her wrist is not entirely healed yet.

NORWEGIANS GO TO RAISE FLAG ON ANTARCTIC LANDS

New York, Oct. 10—The New York Times to-day published the following special cable from Capetown, South Africa:

"Two Norwegian vessels are making a dash for the Antarctic with the object of raising the Norwegian flag along unknown stretches of the coast in advance of Sir Douglas Mawson's Australian Antarctic Expedition.

"By claiming Antarctic territory the Norwegians hope to avoid paying royalties to Great Britain or Australia on the enormous number of whales captured annually in those waters."

When Precedent Was Set In United States Senate

Premier Ramsay MacDonald has the distinction of being the first British Prime Minister in history to address the Senate of the United States. The picture above was taken as he stood on the dais, with Vice-President Curtis seated beside him, last Monday, the speech he then made being regarded as a great contribution to the cause of peace. The picture came part of the way to The Times by telephoto and part by air mail, arriving in Victoria a little over two and a half days after it was taken.

Replacement of Fear By Friendship Best Assurance of Peace

Mr. Justice Denis Murphy Discusses Freedom of Seas Before Rotary Club; Peoples of British Empire and United States Final Arbiters on Accord Attained by National Leaders; Difficulties of Problems Reviewed in Brilliant Address.

"No thinking man will deny that the question of world peace is of outstanding importance as it affects everyone now living or yet to be born," said Mr. Justice Denis Murphy this afternoon when discussing "The Freedom of the Seas," before the Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel.

The speaker pointed out that, in past years, relations between the British Empire and the United States had not been as ideal as they might have been.

He considered that, whatever the permanent result of the present good feeling, brought to the fore by the conversations proceeding between Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and President Hoover, great study would have to be devoted to advancement of amity between the two peoples.

PIONEER WOMAN DIED TO-DAY

Late Miss Florence Gray Came to Victoria in 1873

At 5 o'clock this morning there passed away in this city Miss Florence Mary Gilliat Gray, second daughter of the late Mr. Justice J. Hamilton Gray of Victoria, in her seventy-ninth year.

The late Miss Gray was born in St. John, New Brunswick, on April 29 1850, and came to Victoria in 1873. A brother, J. Hamilton Gray, C.E., of this city, and a sister, Mrs. George Izap of Devonshire, England, are left to mourn her passing. Funeral announcements will be made later.

Wheat Pool Declares Price Not To Be Cut

Calgary, Oct. 10—Comments and advice offered publicly to the Wheat Pool by persons not connected with the co-operative organization are resented by the Alberta Wheat Pool.

Over the radio here to-day, L. D. Nesbitt, publicity secretary of the Pool, stated such comments "fulfill no useful purpose."

Referring to those offering unsolicited advice, he said:

"The best interests of Canada would be served by their maintaining a condition of silence regarding the operations of an organization with which they have no connection."

PRESENT POSITION

Dealing with the present situation, Mr. Nesbitt also said:

"There has been criticism of the Canadian Wheat Pool's stand by various interests overseas and also in Canada. Steamship companies have been laying up some of their Great Lakes carriers in winter quarters and some have expressed bitterness over the fact that our grain is not being exported. Railways have been hindered in their op-

Primate Still Seriously Ill

Archbishop Matheson Suffers Another Heart Attack; Confined to Bed

Has Been Ill Since Arrival to Attend Consecration of New Cathedral

Archbishop S. P. Matheson, of Winnipeg, Primate of Canada, who has been ill ever since his arrival here two weeks ago, to attend the consecration of the new Christ Church Cathedral, took a turn for the worse yesterday and considerable concern is felt here over his condition.

Archbishop Matheson has been confined to his bed at the home of Charles Williams, 1765 Rockland Avenue, from heart trouble.

Mrs. Matheson will arrive in Victoria to-morrow to be with her husband.

Plans for removing the archbishop from Victoria to Winnipeg, under care of a physician and nurse, were discussed, but nothing can be done at present.

At present the archbishop is unable to see anyone and is attended constantly by a nurse.

ASKS PRAYERS

Acting as commissary for the Bishop of Columbia, Archdeacon Laycock yesterday sent out circulars to the pastors of Victoria asking them to remember the Archbishop in their prayers. The Archbishop is seventy-seven years old.

FIVE PLANES ON NORTH SEARCH

Three Join Two at Baker Lake Hunting For Lost McAlpine Party

Winnipeg, Oct. 10—The outpost of the search for the eight lost explorers in northern Canada to-day was pushed far into the Barren Lands. Three planes had pressed through to Baker Lake, 300 miles west of Hudson Bay, to join Captain G. S. Blanchet's advance patrol of two machines. The newest move places five aircraft on the border of the barren area, where Lieut.-Col. C. D. H. McAlpine and his seven companions are believed to have awaited rescue for nearly five weeks.

According to a message received to-day at the headquarters of the air hunt here, the three additions to the outpost fleet were piloted by Andy Cruikshanks, Hollick Kenyon and J. D. Vance. They arrived at Baker Lake last night after a one-day hop from Stoney Rapids, former search base in northern Saskatchewan. To-day the new arrivals are arrayed beside the Blanchet planes piloted by Roy Brown and William Spence.

"The change-over from pontoons to skis will be made as quickly as possible," said Captain Blanchet, who is to command the new search base at Baker Lake, in a report to-day.

International Law Conference Held

Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., Oct. 10.—Many of the world's greatest legal authorities attended the opening of the Institute of International Law conferences here to-day.

Formed in 1873, the Institute of International Law is meeting for the first time in the United States. More than fifty delegates from foreign countries arrived yesterday.

Dr. James Brown Scott, general secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and president of the Institute, said a wide variety of world problems would come before the conference and declarations would be made on them.

INTERESTING AGENDA FOR MEETING OF COMMERCE CHAMBER

Reports covering one of the busiest three months in the history of the Chamber of Commerce and dealing with the general trend of progress, particularly in shipping, will be presented at the general membership luncheon meeting of the Chamber to-morrow. His Honor Lieutenant-Governor R. Randolph Bruce and Premier S. F. Tolmie will attend. An interesting agenda has been drafted and the main speaker will be P. B. Fowler, president of the Chamber, who was Canada's representative at the International Chamber of Commerce meeting at Amsterdam. The Chamber of Commerce five-piece orchestra will make its debut.

British Premier Greeted To-day In Philadelphia

In That City, on His Way to New York and Canada, He Says He Is Highly Gratified at the Splendid Response in the United States to His Peace Efforts.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10—Premier Ramsay MacDonald was a visitor to-day in Philadelphia on his way to New York, where to-morrow he is to be guest of honor at a luncheon which is expected to have the largest attendance of any such event in the history of that city.

Upon his arrival here from Washington he said he was going away "content and convinced that in the more congenial atmosphere there would be satisfactory results" from his conferences with President Hoover.

"I can not say anything about my visit to Washington," the Premier said. "I am delighted with the general response the American people and the American press have given to the attempts of the President and myself have been making to arrive at the mutual understanding.

"I am going away content and convinced that in the more congenial atmosphere there will be satisfactory results. Some matters will take only a short time to straighten out, but the great thing that has been accomplished is that we have removed the points that used to lead to misunderstanding and friction."

CITY COMPILES VOTERS' LIST

Many Corporations Have Failed to Take Out the Necessary Declaration

Householders and Trades Licensees Must Register During October

Registrations for the city voters' list are heavier this year than last to a considerable extent, it was stated by M. F. Hunter at the City Hall to-day. Up to yesterday a total of 647 registrations had been filed, from householders and licensees, compared with 545 at the same period last year, said the city clerk.

Registered owners of property within the city are listed automatically. Property owning corporations have to file a statement showing who is their authorized representative. Licensed corporations must also name an authorized representative, taking out a declaration before a notary public or other authorized person.

CLOSES THIS MONTH

Householders and individuals with trades license must register in person, either at the office of the city clerk or through one of the three agents appointed by the city to take declarations. Registration proceeds during the month of October, and the voters' list is closed at 5 p.m. on October 31.

So far eighty property owning corporations have not complied with the necessary forms to name their authorized representatives. Licensed corporations to the number of 120 are in the same position, many failing to take out the necessary declaration.

To vote in civic elections one must be a British subject of the full age of twenty-one years, with residence qualification in the city.

Approximately 11,500 names were on the voters list when registration closed last year, over 9,000 being property owners or property owning corporations.

MACDONALD HONORED TO-DAY AT BALTIMORE

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 10.—An ovation from several hundred people greeted Premier Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter, Ishbel, when they came to the observation platform of their car during a five-minute stop of their Philadelphia-bound special train here to-day.

During the stop here engrossed scrolls, giving him honorary membership in the St. Andrew's Society of Baltimore and the Maryland Academy of Sciences were presented to the British statesman.

Vancouver Conservative Association Meeting Was Very Hot Factional Fight

Vancouver, Oct. 10.—More than 1,000 members of the Vancouver Conservative Association, including a goodly percentage of women, engaged last night in an old-time factional battle that for intensity of emotion, forceful language and the enthusiastic manner in which they threw themselves into the fray outclassed any similar performance in the history of the association.

The meeting had been called for the purpose of considering amendments to the constitution submitted by certain members who are alleged to be behind President J. E. Merryfield, elected last year after a stormy session. Amendments prepared by the opposition also were to be submitted to the gathering, but were withdrawn at the last moment, when the opposition devoted its time to blocking progress on the other motions.

FOUR ARRESTED IN SEATTLE WHEN NARCOTIC SEIZED

Two Vancouver Men and Seattle Man and Young Woman Face Charges

Seattle, Oct. 10.—Raiding a luxuriously furnished cottage in a fashionable neighborhood here last night, deputy sheriffs seized narcotics valued at $10,000 and arrested four persons suspected of being connected with ownership and distribution of the contraband.

Those arrested gave their names as George Wilson, Florence Regan, nineteen; Ray Thomas and Jimmy Taylor. Another unidentified person whom neighbors said had posed as the "gardener" was being sought, officers believing he was actually the lookout for the place.

Thomas and Taylor, both of Vancouver, B.C., were suspected of being narcotic runners by the sheriff's officers, while Wilson was believed to be the proprietor of the establishment. In addition to the narcotics some opium paraphernalia and a large quantity of liquor was seized. The prisoners were lodged in the county jail.

Farm Combines To Be Made in Ontario

Toronto, Oct. 10.—A plant financed and controlled by H. V. McKay Limited of Melbourne, Australia, and the Waterloo Manufacturing Company of Waterloo, Ont., will be erected at Waterloo in the near future to manufacture combine threshers.

It is expected the plant will employ about 1,500 men.

FIRST SNOW OF SEASON SEEN ON SOUTH PRAIRIES

Winnipeg, Oct. 10.—Winter sent his agents through southern Manitoba and Saskatchewan to-day to make bookings for a lengthy run during the next five months. Brandon, Virden and Minnedosa, in Manitoba, and Qu'Appelle, in southeastern Saskatchewan, recorded the season's first fall of snow. Three inches of snow were reported from Brandon and Virden, while sleet and rain joined in the precipitation at Minnedosa and Qu'Appelle, according to weather authorities. Rain fell in parts of Alberta, but temperatures were not sufficiently low to effect a change to snow.

Prince Albert, Sask., was the chilliest spot on the prairies, recording 26 degrees above zero.

ICE CARNIVAL HERE SET FOR NOVEMBER 9

Annual Rotary Club Show at Willows Arena Now Being Arranged

Last Monday evening the Rotary Club ice carnival committee met under the chairmanship of P. B. Scurrah and arrangements for the forthcoming ice carnival were outlined.

"The big show at the Arena this year will outdo all previous efforts," said Mr. Scurrah. "Already the Vancouver Rotary Club has engaged a number of headline acts which have never before been seen on the coast, and the securing of these skating stars is only possible because of the attractive offers made to them by the Vancouver Rotary Club. We in Victoria could not possible bring these stars here with a rink capacity of 4,000 seats. The Vancouver Arena holds 12,000, and it is therefore possible to entice these skating stars out west before the season opens at Madison Square Garden, New York, and the Colisseum in Chicago."

BIG SUCCESS.

At each of the two previous ice carnivals held under the auspices of the Victoria Rotary Club the Willows Arena has held a capacity crowd. Ice acrobats are presented in the most thrilling acts, pageants, tableaux, masquerade parade and mirth-provoking novelties make up a bill that is packed with interest from first to last.

SCOTTISH WILL BEGIN TRAINING END OF MONTH

Lieutenant-Governor R. Randolph Bruce to Present Certificates

Big Season Looked Forward to; Will Be Active in Sports Again

The Canadian Scottish will commence their fall and winter training on the night of October 29. They will continue through the winter their weekly drills on every Monday night from 8 to 10 o'clock.

The start of the season will be ushered in by a smoker and rally at the Drill Hall of all members of the battalion, when an opportunity will be given to everyone to comment on and make constructive suggestions for the year's work and schedule of activity.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor is an honorary colonel of the regiment and will present certificates, trophies and prizes won during the last drill season, which was a most successful one. The regiment won five out of seven team shoots in musketry at the B.C.R.A., and the Macdonald Brier Shield and prize at the D.C.R.A. Besides this they placed second and third in several other team shoots. Two members of the regiment shot at Bisley this year, and five at Ottawa. In next year's Bisley team, composed of eighteen marksmen from Canada, the Canadian Scottish will again furnish two who won their place at the Dominion Rifle Meet this summer. These two are Capt. Holland and Sergeant Regan.

In sports the regiment were runners-up in the Rugby championship and won the regimental contest in home-and-home games against the Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver. Their Rugby squad this year under the management of Captain Travis and the captaincy of Lieut. Forbes, is shaping up a much better team with which they hope this year to win the Barnard Cup.

During the summer camp the regiment won the brigade sports competition from the Vancouver units.

A big year in sports is looked for, and the facilities at the Armories have been increased by the final completion of the gymnasium.

One of the most interesting features of the year's work, the development of platoon training by platoon competition, will be continued during the coming season. Last year's competition was won by No. 3 Platoon, commanded by Lieut. Lambert and Sergt. Crossley, Lieut. Lambert accompanying His Honor to Banff as aide at the Highland games as a result of the good work of his platoon.

The individual officers' score was won by Lieut. W. Oliver. The highest individual score for sergeants was won by Sergt. Gilbert, with Corp. McIntyre winning the section commander's trophy.

Physicians Favor Use of Cascara

Doctors who warn against the use of violent, habit-forming purgatives will tell you that cascara is one of the gentlest and most beneficial laxatives known to science. Cascarets are nothing but pure cascara, sweetened with cane sugar and flavored with licorice. You can take them any time that Nature needs a little help with the process of elimination—and never experience any discomfort, nausea or unpleasant after effects.

You can easily tell when you are suffering from faulty elimination. You feel listless, out of sorts, perhaps your tongue is coated or you have a bilious, headachy feeling. Cascarets will clear up this sluggish feeling every time and soon have your system functioning as it should. You needn't hesitate to give them to children or old folks either.

Cascarets always act, and they always act the same way; gentle but thorough. They don't stir up the stomach or upset the system, but they cleanse the entire thirty feet of bowels in one comfortable, thorough action that leaves the system sweet and clean. You'll wake up feeling like a new person; tongue uncoated, breath sweetened, eyes bright, appetite on edge, life worth living again!

Take a delicious, candy Cascaret the next time you have that sluggish feeling—or give them to the children when they are out of sorts. Full medical endorsement proves the principle of Cascarets is right.

Officials here are bewildered at radio messages continuing to come out from Baker Lake after a report that that post two days ago had said its sending apparatus would not be working for several days, due to generator trouble.

Although five planes are ready at Baker Lake to hop off in search of the McAlpine mining prospectors and their two planes as soon as the lakes freeze over solidly enough to permit the use of skis on the flying craft, it is not expected here that any flying will be done for at least a week, and probably more.

MECHANICS AT WORK

Arrival of the Cruikshanks-Vance-Kenyon planes has placed the Baker Lake post on a strong footing mechanically. Two mechanics were brought in yesterday, so that four men are now available for the formation of a tool and repair shop. Gasoline caches will be placed at points farther north and west.

At Stoney Rapids, J. C. Rogers, who has been in command since the departure of Capt. Blanchet for Baker Lake some two weeks ago, will supervise plane movements. Seven mechanics are available at Stoney Rapids, and half a dozen more are available at widely seprated points.

It is considered unlikely other planes will be called into the search until after the freeze-up.

A very good letter comes from a lady in an up-country community but we are not privileged to reveal her name. She says in part:

In addition to a reception committee at the railway station, a delegation of thirty-six British war veterans living in Philadelphia formed two lines through which the British statesman walked. As he proceeded, he shook hands with every man down one line and then retraced his steps to do similar honor to the other line.

While he was engaged, Miss Ishbel MacDonald was presented with a bouquet of roses by a British war nurse.

About 500 persons were at the Baltimore & Ohio station to greet the Premier.

As he was about to enter an automobile the crowd broke through the police line and surrounded the distinguished visitor. Mr. MacDonald smilingly shook hands with all in reach.

He was then driven to the Bellevue Stratford Hotel.

HOST AT LUNCHEON

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—Rt. Hon Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Great Britain, came to Philadelphia today in his private capacity to meet old friends and to greet those who ministered to him when he was ill here for three weeks two years ago.

Mr. MacDonald, on his way from Washington to New York with his daughter Ishbel and other members of his party, arrived just before noon.

Mr. MacDonald, who was very ill here in 1927, some time ago arranged to give a luncheon here to the physicians and nurses who cared for him in Jefferson Hospital, and those who entertained his daughter while he was ill.

So, instead of being the honored guest to-day he was host at a private luncheon for about forty persons at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel.

The Prime Minister left Philadelphia at 2.33 p.m. for New York.

NEW YORK PROGRAMME

New York, Oct. 10.—A three-day programme of official and private engagements, including a luncheon which is expected to be the largest in attendance ever given in this city, will greet Premier Ramsay MacDonald upon his arrival from Washington this evening.

The Prime Minister of Great Britain and his party will remain in New York until Monday, when they will depart for Canada, visiting Niagara Falls as guests of the New York State Reservation Commission, and crossing the International Peace Bridge at Buffalo on Tuesday. The only event on his programme to-night is a visit to the home of Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan and Company.

To-morrow at 1 o'clock Mr. MacDonald will be the guest of the English-Speaking Union of the United States at a luncheon at the Hotel Astor. Arrangements have been made for 5,000 guests.

Later in the afternoon he will attend a tea and reception by the Foreign Policy Association at the Hotel Commodore.

In the evening he will speak at a dinner of the Council of Foreign Relations. The speech will be broadcast in this country and to the British Isles and continental Europe.

Saturday and Sunday will be free of official engagements for the Prime Minister.

DEPARTURE FROM WASHINGTON

Washington, Oct. 10.—Concluding a visit expected to affect the destiny of nations, Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDontld, Prime Minister of Great Britain, left Washington today at 9.02 a.m. for Philadelphia and New York en route to Canada, into which country he is to cross at Niagara Falls next Monday. Secretary of State Stimson and other high officials were at the station and bade farewell to the British statesman, who for nearly a week had been in the capital conferring with President Hoover on means of promoting world peace.

These conferences had been pronounced satisfactory by both the President and Premier, and upon his departure to-day Mr. MacDonald appeared well pleased with his trip.

As Mr. MacDonald waved his goodbye beside him stood his daughter, Ishbel, and his secretary, Sir Robert Van Stittart.

USED WHITE HOUSE CARS

The trip from the British Embassy to the Union station was made in White House cars sent early this morning by the President for the use of the Prime Minister and his party.

Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador, and Capt. Alan Buchan, the President's naval aide, rode with the Prime Minister in the first car. The Premier was dressed in a blue business suit, soft collar and blue and white tie and top coat, and carried a cane. It was the first time during his stay in this city that he had not worn formal clothes.

At the entrance of the station, despite the bustle and hurry to board the train, Mr. MacDonald stopped long enough to shake hands with and personally thank the three motorcycle policemen who had escorted him on his trips around Washington.

SPECIAL TRAIN

The entire party followed Secretary Stimson and the Prime Minister to the private car of Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, which was attached to the end of two Pullmans, a diner and a baggage car.

Just before the train left Miss Ishbel stood smiling on the platform while British Embassy officials denied a last-moment rumor that she had visited a night club last night. She wore a single orchid with her black traveling ensemble, and leaned forward to give enthusiastic salutes to the officials and spectators as the train pulled out.

In parting with Secretary Stimson, the Prime Minister clasped his hand and said:

"I only wish I could stay longer."

SIX DAYS IN WASHINGTON

During his six-day stay here Mr. MacDonald was chiefly occupied in conversing in the most open manner with the President. They discussed in a broad and general way possible causes of differences between Great Britain and the United States, and decided that active discussion of historic problems should be undertaken in the new atmosphere created by the Paris pact of peace.

Presumably with President Hoover approving the text, invitations to a five-power naval disarmament conference next January were issued, and it was announced that both the Prime Minister and President had good hopes of its result, competitive building by Great Britain and the United States having been halted by agreement upon parity in all categories of warships.

ADDRESS TO SENATE

The Prime Minister addressed the United States Senate, and it is agreed upon all sides his candid treatment of the question of parity, and the attitude of the United States in world politics made a profound and happy impression.

But most important were his conversations, extending over a period of days, with the President.

C. N. Haney presented a long list of amendments, while A. C. Des Brisay, who was to have faltered other amendments, withdrew from the field.

TWO AND A HALF HOURS

Following two and a half hours of verbal warfare a compromise resolution was presented giving the whole question of the constitution a four-months' hoist.

This motion passed unanimously.

The meeting was one of those good old family rows where the action was too swift to take heed of the nice points of debate. Speakers were told to "shut up," "dry up" and "sit down" at frequent intervals. Hon. R. L. Maitland, member of the Tolmie Cabinet without portfolio, was booed by one section of the hall and his supporters responded with an outburst of cheering that made the old rafters ring.

F. G. T. Lucas mounted the platform at one stage, but his remarks could not be made out.

The chairman was alternately cheered and derided.

One woman accused Mr. Haney of being a foxy old bachelor when he suggested depriving the Women's Conservative Association of representation at the annual meeting except as members of the Vancouver Conservative Association.

C. J. Lang cast aspersions on the right of some women to be present at the meeting, a statement that was vigorously denied pointblank by several women speakers.

The women members had their fighting togs on and were heard from frequently.

Practically all the speakers renewed their vows of affection for the "good old principles of Conservatism."

At the start of the meeting it was determined by practically unanimous vote that the press representatives should be permitted to remain.

PREMIER AND PRESIDENT AGREE

PREMIER MacDONALD AND PRESIDENT Hoover have concluded their "conversations" and the British Prime Minister has begun the homeward journey which will bring him to Canada for a few days. Before the two statesmen separated they issued a joint statement which announced that their deliberations had been based on the assumption that all prospect of armed conflict between the United States and Great Britain had been "banished," that consequently a satisfactory solution of the "old historical problems" between the two nations had become possible. Although specific mention of these problems was not made in the statement, the reference is taken to mean that the principal one was what is generally known as the freedom of the seas, a fruitful cause of many controversies in the past.

What the elected heads of the two great English-speaking nations agreed upon between themselves, and as far as they could in behalf of the peoples they represent, no doubt will be disclosed in due time. In the meantime it is sufficient to know that a British Prime Minister and a President of the United States, for the first time in history, have faced in a practical manner the problems which for long have involved their respective countries. In the language of Mr. MacDonald, the Atlantic has been "narrowed"; he and Mr. Hoover sat on a log and dangled their feet over the waters of the Rapidan. In that peaceful spot they commenced these conversations in earnest, the conversations which have just been concluded so satisfactorily. It would have taken months of diplomatic correspondence to have achieved a fraction of what these two men have accomplished in less than a week—in a comparatively few hours of actual discussion.

There will be, of course, no alliance, no treaty, between the two countries. It is to be an understanding based upon the common purpose of the peace of the world, an inspiration to other countries to join with the two nations which have been responsible for it in an undertaking of a more precise character, a covenant to reduce armaments and eliminate much of the risk of war. To this end, invitations already have been extended by Great Britain to France, Italy and Japan, whose Governments have been asked to send representatives to meet representatives of Britain and the United States in London some time in January. At that gathering it is assumed the two English-speaking nations will present a united front which should augur well for a successful outcome.

Perhaps the most outstanding feature of the meeting between Premier MacDonald and President Hoover is the keen interest which the public of both countries have manifested in it. The attitude of both British and American press has been one of enthusiastic approval of the business in which the two statesmen have been engaged. Even Lord Birkenhead and Mr. Winston Churchill have publicly given it their blessing. This unanimity has been striking and encouraging.

A VOICE FROM THE TOMB

IT IS HARD TO BELIEVE THAT ADmiral Story, C.B., was speaking seriously on Tuesday when he told the Navy League here that if the Admiralty was not satisfied with the outcome of the conversations between Prime Minister MacDonald and President Hoover the voters should support the Admiralty, but if the Admiralty approved, everybody should follow suit.

This sounds like a voice from a tomb older than the bones of King John. If Admiral Story meant what he said, it must have been apparent to his hearers that they were listening to one who had not the slightest conception of the meaning and progress of British representative institutions. Obviously if the Admiralty, which is only a branch of the British public service, was the arbiter of Government policy in regard to naval affairs, there would be an end to democratic government in Great Britain. By the same token, any other department of the public service might also exercise a censorship of the policy of the Government which has been called upon by the King to direct the nation's affairs. The result would be chaos.

Possibly, what Admiral Story meant was that if the Admiralty did not approve of the outcome of the conversations between Premier MacDonald and President Hoover it should resign, go into politics and campaign against the Government. This is the only way in which it could endeavor to enlist the support of the voters, and then it would cease to be the Admiralty; it would be simply a group of private citizens entering political life. This, of course, it could do, but the trend of public sentiment indicates that if it did so, its political aspirations would be quickly nipped in the bud. If it started a campaign while it was still the Admiralty it would be dismissed from office for disloyalty to the King's Government, which it is sworn to serve faithfully. That Government will answer to Parliament, not the Admiralty, for Mr. MacDonald's policy.

If Admiral Story is at all familiar with the history and character of British democracy, he must realize that about the last thing the electors of Great Britain would permit would be the substitution of a military dictatorship for their representative institutions. In proof of this, we merely have to remind him that it was to preserve those institutions that they decapitated Charles the First and drove the Stuarts from the throne. As far as Canada is concerned, of course, his remarks can have no direct application, since the Admiralty is essentially a branch of the British public service, and is appointed and controlled by the British Government.

It is pertinent to recall to the admiral, however, that about thirty years ago a prominent military officer in the service of the Canadian Government disapproved of that Government's policy and voiced his disapproval in public speeches. He was dismissed from his post, and the electors endorsed the Government's action the first chance they had.

"PUNCH" DICKINS

UNTIL HE CHOOSES TO TELL THE story himself, we shall have to rely upon our imagination for some idea of what "Punch" Dickins has gone through in his efforts to find the ill-fated McAlpine mining exploration party in the inhospitable northland of Canada. We can give our fancy considerable assistance, however, if we consult a map of the Dominion and take note of the point from which he started on his first trip, and follow the newspaper accounts, which tell us the points he has touched since then. Here it is, as a dispatch tells us, in a few words: "The Edmonton pilot has covered 4,500 miles, dashing twice to Canada's Arctic coast in scanning the tundra for the castaways."

Dickins has been affectionately called the thirty-five-year-old "Edmonton daredevil." He is that; but he also is a great deal more than that. If he were only a daredevil aviator, he would have little more to think about than the business of "daredeviling." But when he climbed into his Super-Fokker and set out on his mission, he knew that he would require courage, skill and confidence in his machine and its mechanism. All these he possesses, otherwise he would not be alive to tell the tale. It is not hard to imagine his disappointment, after contributing such a glorious chapter to the history of aviation in Canada, that he was obliged to return to his base with no word of those whom he had hoped to find.

What secrets the northland continues to cover up we may not know. Many things may have happened to McAlpine and his party. But there remains as a monument to Canadian airmanship and courage these epic flights of "Punch" Dickins, which, while notable in themselves as flights, are still more so in the light of the purpose for which they were made.

LIQUOR CLEARANCES

ALTHOUGH THE OFFICIAL ANnouncement has not yet been made, it is practically certain that at the next session of the House of Commons the Government will introduce legislation which will give the Customs Department the authority to refuse clearance to any ship carrying liquor if its destination is the United States.

Canada is only one of the sources of supply which enables illicit traders and gangsters on the other side of the border to operate. But if she shall cease to permit the export of liquor, she at least will have served notice that she no longer intends to allow any part of her territory to be the base of operations for bootleggers and hi-jackers. If the large number of petitions which have been presented to Parliament mean anything at all, it is that the public of this country wishes our hands to be cleaner in this matter than they are at present.

Probably the legislation which the Government is expected to sponsor will not be approved without spirited debate. There are interests which have friends in Parliament which will contend that the prohibition law of the United States is no business of ours, that there is no reason why the Customs Act should be changed with the object of preventing Canadian exporters of liquor from doing business with illicit importers in the States. The majority of our people, however, take a much broader view of the situation. Their first consideration is the good name of their country. It is this they desire to preserve, and that is why they have asked the Government to pass such legislation as shall give effect to their wishes.

NAVAL AGREEMENT

The Philadelphia Ledger

Opposition to the Anglo-American understanding is voiced by those who believe it goes too far and those who believe it does not go far enough. But the country is coming to realize the vital importance of stabilizing Anglo-American relations, to which a naval agreement will contribute so significantly. The Hoover-MacDonald movement has found tremendous support.

THE PANAMA CANAL

The Los Angeles Times

The Panama Canal handled more than 30,000,000 tons of shipping last year. With some expansion that can be easily made and by running the locks and the gates night and day, it might be possible for the canal to take care of 50,000,000 tons. But as it is, ships sometimes have to wait two or three days to get through, and it is important that the surveys and preliminaries for the proposed Nicaragua Canal be speeded up. It will be needed by the time it is built.

BRITISH SETTLERS FOR CANADA

The Toronto Globe

It has recently been shown that Canada is now absorbing more newcomers per capita than the United States attempted to assimilate in the pre-war melting-pot days. There is therefore a growing realization that Canada is already attempting a man-sized national task. At the same time, there is room for a considerably increased influx from Britain. By closing the doors to those people who create acute problems on their arrival, Canada will be able to open them wider to her own kith and kin.

Loose Ends

This column again demonstrates its superiority over ordinary science for the train came as scheduled—A unique opportunity is presented to industrialists—Hope is revived in the bosoms of shirt wearers—and France loses a plumber to gain a poet.

By H. B. W.

THIS COLUMN feels bound to point out that its unscientific weather forecasts have succeeded where the best efforts of science have failed miserably. Readers of this column, if any, will recall that not long ago it published a complete summary of weather conditions from October 1 to December 31, and therein it was plainly stated that there would be rain on Monday, October 7, and several days following. They will also recall that on Monday, October 7, it was fine, and this column seriously considered ceasing publication altogether. But at 9.30 p.m. raindrops came pattering down, and this disaster was happily averted.

* * *

WHAT READERS of this column may not recall was the fact that on October 7, another part of this paper published an official weather forecast, which originated in an observatory not far from here, and it made no mention of rain at all. On the morning of October 8, after a night of rain, the official prediction was: "Light to moderate winds. Generally fair." And on October 8 there were showers during most of the day, just as this column had predicted, and a heavy rain at night.

* * *

AFTER THIS people will know where to look in the paper when they want to know the truth about important things.

* * *

IF THE world is still interested in bringing new industries into existence, it should ponder the pregnant lines that follow. The best opportunity for a really successful industry seems to have been overlooked by promoters everywhere. The best opportunity in the world for industrial expansion exists here and now. I refer, of course, to the need of a laundry which has a proper respect for button-holes and stud holes and collar holes.

* * *

EVERY MAN knows that the present generation of laundrymen have no better feelings of any kind. Instead of making the daily life of their fellowmen a little easier what do they do? Why, they obliterate the hole that holds your collar stud; that's what they do. Every time a man puts on a boiled shirt in order that his wife may not be disgraced when she is engaged in the gentle art of social climbing, what happens to him? With infinite labor and acrobatic skill he gets the shirt on, then when he feels gingerly at the collar band and tries to insert the collar button he finds that the hole has just disappeared. Vainly he thrusts and jabs with his finger at the familiar spot. The collar band refuses to yield. It can't, it has been starched up by the heartless laundryman until there is no yield and no hole in it.

* * *

THERE IS only one thing to do. You pull the shirt off, usually rupturing its delicate brittle front in the process; and having got it off, you call for a can opener or borrow the German bayonet from the war veteran next door and carve a new hole of your own. Now this is all right in its way, and the risk of serious physical injury is not very great if you let your wife hold the shirt and administer the anaesthetic while you perform the incision. But a home-made incision is never satisfactory. Either it is too small or it is so large that no collar button will remain in it past the fish course, and by the time the dessert arrives your collar is climbing up your neck with all the ambition of a successful Rotarian, while the collar button, with the thriftless instincts of its race, has slid helplessly down your spine and is causing a subluxation of the third vertebra. Night after night this tragedy of the missing buttonhole is enacted in countless defenceless homes and not a word is raised in protest.

* * *

THE OLD - FASHIONED Oriental laundrymen had certain disadvantages. He used to fill himself with water until he was running over, and then regurgitate it all over your shirt in a rather unsanitary splurge, and he would make the edge of your collar look and feel like a rip-saw, but he did not cruelly block up, hide or obliterate your buttonhole.

* * *

EMERSON SAID that if a man would make a mousetrap better than other mousetraps purchasers would beat a path to his door, though it were in the wilderness. If a laundry would open in Victoria and refuse to operate the machine which systematically seals up the buttonholes, the rush of frenzied shirt wearers towards this enlightened institution would tie up traffic in the business district all morning. When the City Council has a few minutes to spare, after it has finished locking the little white bear away for the night, let it ponder these things. Why it hasn't pondered them long ago I cannot imagine, unless it be that aldermen no longer wear collars, or launder their own every Monday night before the Council meeting.

* * *

THROUGH A RECENT decision of its courts, France has just demonstrated anew its admiration for genius and its respect for the Gallic fire of its race. Jacques Candrier, eighteen-year-old plumber, fell in love with Florintine Alonzo, Spanish beauty, known to the cafes of Montmartre as "Carmen." Her fate was much like that of the original lady of that name. M. Candrier met her in a subway station, fell desperately in love with her, spent all his savings buying her jewelry, oranges and cinema shows. When his money was gone she remembered that she had a Spanish sweetie, who was extremely jealous and probably would slit young M. Candrier's windpipe if he ever met him. Whereupon M. Candrier, unable to bear the loss of the lady, stabbed her in the back and killed her, as a gentleman should.

* * *

TO THE courts M. Candrier said he would rather see his sweetie dead than in the arms of another man, and he added that although by trade he was a plumber, yet he had the soul of a poet and a musician and aspired to exalted things. The courts of France pondered long on the aspirations of M. Candrier, the plumber, and fearing that if he were executed France would lose a potential poet and musician, they sentenced him to detention until he attained his majority, or for three years only. The gain to France, however, is not without its drawbacks, for having gained a poet and musician of unknown possibilities, it has lost a perfectly good plumber, who, on the whole, would be more valuable in cases of emergency. Meanwhile, the findings of the learned judges will help to encourage a love of poetry, music and exalted things among the young men of France, and what, after all, are a few murders, more or less, between friends?

RUSSIAN GIRL TO BE ENGINEER

Canadian Immigrant Taking Course at Edmonton University

Edmonton, Alt., Oct. 10.—The univariety this year has the honor of the presence of a student unique in the faculty in which she has registered. It is Miss Tsther Rabkin who has registered in electrical engineering.

She is a little dark, curly-haired Russian girl, with sparkling brown eyes, and a most charming and vivacious manner. "I have always wanted to take up electrical engineering," she says in her excellent English, with the piquant Russian accent. "Ever since I was in high school in Russia. A number of my friends have gone into it there, and have been doing very well."

RUSSIAN SCHOOLING

Miss Rabkin came out to Canada four years ago. Her home was not far from Moscow. When her father died she, being the eldest of the family, and her mother, decided to come out to far-away Canada, to relatives they had in Calgary. Already Esther had completed her schooling in Russia.

"In Russia, we only go to school nine years. We do not have high schools and public schools as you do, but both are in one. I studied French and German, and in French I was doing very well. But I am afraid I have forgotten it. I was most interested in the lab. work we did in physics, and in the electrical experiments we performed," she explained.

NOT AFRAID OF WORK

"What are you going to do when survey school starts in the spring?" she was asked.

"Oh, I shall put on men's breeches and high top boots, and then I shall hike with the other students when they go out to do their field work. I am not afraid of it, I can do it as well as men."

"How are you managing to take such an expensive course?" she was asked.

"I work during the holidays. This summer I was made the manager of a grocery store in Calgary. I am going to find something to do on Saturdays to give me extra money, while I attend university." The money questions does not worry her. A perfectly independent student, who puts herself through college, she has every chance to succeed.

"What if you get married?"—Miss Rabkin laughed cheerfully.

"Well, if I do, then I will go on with my work just the same. A husband does not spoil a girl's chances in this work."

Miss Rabkin is only the second woman student to have registered in engineering at the university. She does not seem to think her choice at all strange, as apparently it is quite a popular career with girls in Russia.

J. G. KELLAM WEDS HOLLYWOOD GIRL

John G. Kellam, formerly of Victoria and now of Vancouver, and Miss Emma Isabel Howson of Hollywood, Cal., were married in South Pasadena, Cal., last Saturday, according to word received here to-day.

They are now on their honeymoon in the south and will come north before the end of the month to open their new home in Vancouver. Mr. Kellam is British Columbia manager for Logan and Bryan of New York.

Children's Story Hour — The Children's Story Hour will be held in the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. All children will be welcome. Miss King of the Public Library will be present and tell the stories. Miss Hinton will conduct games at the close of the stories.

Handicraft Class.—A class in handicraft will open at the Y.W.C.A. on Friday night at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Sweeney will be in charge of the class. Lamp shades, stencil, fancy bags, leather and Gesso work will be taught.

"My dear, that has QUITE gone out!"

"What, liptick?"
"No, but lipstick that's always coming off!"

The modern woman, with her active, energetic life and pressing necessity always to look her best, cannot be bothered with lipstick that needs continual application, and, still worse, leaves tell-tale stains on everything her lips touch.

She uses Kissproof, the modern waterproof lipstick that, once on, stays on, until removed with cold cream at bedtime! Kissproof gives lips the rich, crimson glow that is youth's rightful dowry. Hot soup or tea make no difference to its lasting bloom. You can bathe and swim, and come out of the water knowing that your lips will look their loveliest.

Every woman—whether she has used lipstick before or not—should try this totally different beauty aid—so lovely—so natural. At all toilet counters.

Kissproof

Let your eyes be beautiful, too! Touch up the lashes and brows with Delica-Brow, making them appear longer, thicker—making your eyes sparkle with new life. Harmless. Waterproof. Black or brown, at all toilet counters.

From the auxiliary she received a life membership, and the institute a very handsome eiderdown. The first supper dance of the winter season was held at the Crystal Garden last evening, a dance taking place in the south ballroom. These dances will be held in the Garden every Wednesday during the winter, Mr. A. E. Cowlishaw, manager, has announced, and doubtless will become very popular with Victorians. They were commenced two years ago and have been held during the winter months since then. The new Crystal Garden orchestra of ten pieces supplied an excellent programme of the latest dance hits during the evening and supper was served at individual tables arranged around the ballroom.

HOUSE WEDDING UNITES COUPLE

Miss Leona Sims Becomes Bride of Mr. George Farey

Pringle united in marriage Miss Leona Sims, daughter of Mrs. Alice Fike of Sidney and the late Mr. Sims, to Mr. George Farey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Farey of Victoria. The wedding ceremony was performed under an arch arranged in the corner of the dining-room, fashioned of pink, blue and white crepe paper, while streamers of the same colors, radiating from the chandelier to the sides of the room, formed a canopy.

The bride choose for her wedding gown a charming combination of blue and gold lace over turquoise blue satin, designed with long sleeves, long waist, with full skirt and uneven hemline, and wore on her head a silver bandeau. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and sweet peas.

Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Jack Noble, who wore a frock made with long-waisted bodice of beige radium lace, with elongated points forming godets in the skirt, which was composed of frills of orange tulle over crimson tulle. She carried a bouquet of yellow chrystanthemums and peach-colored gladioli. Mr. Jack Noble supported the groom.

Following the marriage service, a reception was held at which over 100 guests were present to offer their felicitations to the happy couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Farey left on the midnight boat for Vancouver and will visit in Seattle prior to returning to Victoria where they will make their home on Toronto Street.

For traveling the bride wore a dress of blue crepe-back satin and hat to match, and blue coat with wolfskin collar and cuffs.

MOTHER COMMENTS ON TEMPER TANTRUMS AT NIGHT

Mrs. K. D. writes:

"A recent article of yours came so close 'home' that I could not resist writing to you. I was wondering if the small boy who kicks and screams throughout the night, has fretful crying spells, and whose mother said he was well and carefully fed, could have enlarged adenoids or infected tonsils? I realize that you know children act that way at night, but you did not mention it in this particular article. I read something of yours not long ago about crying and fretfulness being due to adenoids and I only wish I had seen it sooner. My little boy had those spells, and was 'run down' generally. His regular baby specialist told me that it was his teeth, though he knew that he had enlarged adenoids. I put off the operation until he was two years old, but I am sorry I did not have it done months sooner. He now has advanced sinus infection and I have been through everything with him. He sniffles and snorts all night, sleeps on his stomach (this isn't harmful, Mrs. K. D.), features are entirely changed, likes all kinds of food but has no appetite, and in damp weather is very cross and fretful. I think when there is any question of adenoids being enlarged or tonsils infected the child should be taken to a nose and throat specialist, who is best able to judge their condition and advise accordingly."

ANSWER

I find those readers who follow this department constantly are quick to realize when everything that can be said about a subject is not. This boy puzzled me, because his mother was so certain that he was in excellent condition. The suffocation due to an enlarged growth of adenoids is always given as a reason for restlessness and sleeplessness, crying at night and sometimes night terrors. When the child closes his mouth and tries to breathe as would be natural when asleep, since his mouth relaxes and closes and isn't forcibly held open as in the daytime, then he cannot breathe. In his effort to get his breath he becomes terrified and wakes up screaming in fright, feeling no doubt that he is being choked or suffocated. I am sorry that I did not add this to the answer to Mrs. E. L. A.—she described his actions at night as tantrums and they do not belong in that class.

I am hoping that your boy will improve. Have you thought of a change of climate? A few months in a high, dry climate would probably do wonders for the sinus infection. It seems to be largely a matter of climate, according to our best doctors. You yourself mentioned the effect of damp weather upon him.

Have you some problem which you cannot solve? Mrs. Eldred will be glad to help you with it. Just write her a letter in care of the Your Baby and Mine Department of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for leaflets or personal advice.

B.C. DAUGHTERS PLAN ACTIVITIES

Post No. 3 to Place Wreath on War Memorial Nov. 11

Many activities were planned and business discussed at the monthly meeting of Post No. 3 Native Daughters of British Columbia, held on Tuesday evening in the Alexandra Club with Chief Factor, Mrs. S. J. Stapledon, in the chair.

A letter was read from Post No. 1 Native Sons of British Columbia inviting the members and their partners to a social evening to be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday, October 16, in the Sons of England Hall, Broad Street. The Post decided to buy poppies to make a wreath with an evergreen background to be placed on the war memorial on Armistice Day. The members were much interested in a letter from Mr. C. C. Pemberton regarding municipal forests. Several more articles were handed in for the Hope Chest, tickets for which may be obtained from the conveners, Miss Merle Lorimer or Miss H. Neelands, or any member of the Post.

The Post will hold a bridge party on November 7. The committees in charge include Mrs. S. J. Stapledon, Mrs. J. C. Newbury, Mrs. W. Kinsman, Mrs. Nicholas, Mrs. F. Webb, Miss H. Neelands, Miss K. Wilson and Miss Mae McCorkall.

A very satisfactory report was given of the recent silver tea. Miss M. Klick won the attendance prize.

Alliance Plans Fine Series Of French Lectures

The opening meeting of L'Alliance Francaise was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Madame E. Sanderson-Mongin, Laurel Lane, when a large number of former members and new members assembled to discuss the programme for the winter months. Madame Halet, the president, welcomed her associates in L'Alliance and spoke of the gratifying attendance which promised well for a successful season.

The objectives of the society, to stimulate intercourse among the French-speaking people and to encourage students of the French language to become familiar with conversational French and the literature of France, were explained and an animated discussion upon the programme for the year's meetings followed. Members were asked to submit their suggestions in writing, for helpful and interesting afternoon sessions, which will be held as usual on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month at 4 o'clock at 1537 Laurel Lane.

It was announced by the president that the first lecture of the season will be delivered by Comte Jean de Suzannet in Victoria College on Saturday evening, October 19, at 8.15. The subject will be "Syria," illustrated with numerous and very fine lantern slides. Early in December there will be a second lecture, when Mlle. Adrienne d'Ambricourt will be heard. Her subject, "The Modern Actor," will be exemplified with extracts from modern drama. Madame d'Ambricourt is now lecturing in Seattle, Portland and San Francisco. The official lecturer of L'Alliance Francaise, sent each year from Paris, will probably reach Victoria in January.

Madame Sanderson-Mongin spoke on the bursary presented annually by Victoria members of L'Alliance Francaise to the student in Victoria College making the highest marks in French, and which has now been extended to first and second year students. Mrs Hamilton-Smith read the report of the year's activities and gave also the report of the treasury, both entirely satisfactory to the members, and was received with applause. Attention was called to the library of French books for the use of the members, to which has been added a collection of delightful romances, also the bookshelf at the Victoria Book and Stationery, property of France-Canada, which is at the disposal of the members of L'Alliance, and comprises a fine collection of volumes of travel, history and fiction. Tea was served by the hostess of the afternoon.

How Mrs. Carey cured my washday backaches!

OH, how I used to dread washday! Every Monday it was scrub, scrub, scrub all day long. At night I'd be just about dead.

Then that awful backache. I'd just be getting over it when another washday would be on top of me.

One Monday morning when I wasn't even half through my washing I looked out of the window—and what a surprise I got. There was my new next-door neighbor Mrs. Carey hanging out a lovely white wash.

"How in the world does she do it?" I asked myself for I knew she couldn't have started earlier than I did. I determined to find out right then.

Mrs. Carey's advice

My surprise was even greater when I saw Mrs. Carey herself. She was just as bright and fresh as a daisy yet her wash was bigger than mine.

"How did you do it?" I asked.

"It's no secret," she replied. "I just got tired of doing my wash the old-fashioned rub and scrub way. Now I just soak and rinse. I never touch a washboard, and I don't even boil!"

"But how do you get your wash so lovely and white?" I said to her.

"Haven't you been reading in the papers," she asked, "how women all over town wash clothes a new way—how a new kind of soap, Rinso, soaks clothes whiter than you can scrub them?" That very day I bought Rinso.

No Washday "blues" now

You can imagine how glad I am. Washday is one of my easiest days now. And backache? I haven't had one since the first time I used Rinso.

I wish you women who read this would please take my advice. Don't do another wash the old-fashioned "scrub" way. Try Rinso. Just once—that's all I ask. You'll say, as thousands of other women have, that it's the easiest—quickest—and safest way to wash clothes snowy white.

Athletics and Cubs Now Move To Philadelphia

THE SPORTS MIRROR

WILL THE Athletics make it four straight? That is the question burning in the minds of baseball fans all over this continent at the present time. The way the present world series has started out, it begins to look as if the American league teams have the Indian sign on the squads in the older circuit.

* * *

Looking over the series games of the last two years and the beginning of the present session, one finds that yesterday's win for the A's was the tenth straight victory for the American League over the National. In 1927 and 1928 the Yankees won the championship in four straight games each time and Connie Mack's aggregation have started well on the way towards doing the same thing this year.

* * *

For the next few days the Mackmen have everything in their favor. Playing on their own field will be one advantage. For another they have still one of their first string pitchers, Rube Walberg, primed and ready to go, while the Cubs have used their best and found them wanting.

* * *

Yesterday's game at Chicago brings out a few interesting sidelights. For one thing, it again demonstrated the ability of the Mackmen to work in the pinches. Twice George Earnshaw was in a hole in the early inning with two and three men on bases. On the first occasion he struck out the batter facing him and the second time forced him to pop out.

It also proved the Cubs' dislike for speed, which they were reputed to relish. Several experts thought they would murder the fast ones after being gulled so easily by Howard Ehmke in the first game. But just as many Bruins whiffed the air before the dazzling speed of Earnshaw and Grove as they did before Ehmke's slow ones.

* * *

Hack Wilson was the only one of "murderer's row" who ate up the speed, Hack had a perfect batting average for the day, three out of three, which partly obliterated his failure against Ehmke the day before. They say Wilson will either be a hero or a goat this series because he is the kind of batter who goes for extra base hits or else strikes out.

* * *

An interesting angle of the box score is the information that of the twenty-seven batters retired, twenty-one putouts were credited to the catcher and first baseman. The fourteen putouts for which Mickey Cochrane gets credit create a world series record incidentally. The point is, however, that only three long flies went for putouts, Simmons in left catching two and Haas in centre, one.

* * *

The grey Old Roman is coming back to the baseball wars. Several months ago Charles A. Comiskey left his office at the White Sox ball yard, and it was feared he would never return. In camp at Eagle River, Wis., he has fought to win back his health. Reports from the camp say the Old Roman has won that fight, and now he purposes to continue the battle to make his ball club sounder, too.

"I'll live to see my ball club up there again," he is quoted as saying.

* * *

Harry Grabiner is boss of the disorganized White Sox team. That may be true, for the time being. But Mr. Grabiner hardly will be boss with the Old Roman around. When Comiskey steps in, he runs things. Everybody who knows Comiskey knows that nobody else will own the White Sox as long as a man named Charles A. Comiskey is on earth.

* * *

Comiskey is seventy years old now. Like Connie Mack, who is sixty-seven, he has felt keenly the pangs of owning a second division ball club. Is it too much to expect that his Sox will be "up there" again, as he says, contenders for the American League pennant in 1930? The only answer is, the Old Roman knows how to build ball teams.

* * *

The Sox has been a team made up of many youngsters. These lads have displayed marked shortcomings. Comiskey says that he plans trades whereby he will acquire two seasoned players in trade for some of the younger talent. Does he mean Art Shires is on the way to some other ball team?

* * *

Do you remember when "Buck" Weaver got two of the three hits that were made off Hod Eller in the Black Series of 1919? Or, if you're a little older, Old George Wiltse playing first base for the Giants in the second game of the 1913 series? Or, if you're older still, Cy Young of the Red Sox beating Deacon Phillippe of the Pirates, 7 to 3, in the first world series game between the National and American League teams in 1903?

* * *

Other series echoes that resound as another championship event is being contested are:

Heinie Zimmerman chasing Eddie Collins over the plate in the last game of the 1917 series between the Giants and White Sox.

Navy Make It Two In a Row; Champs Have Yet to Win

Sailors Retain Top Berth in Midweek Soccer League by Handing Batchelors 6-2 Defeat; Saanich United Win by Odd Goal Over Bays, Titleholders; Games Are Well Contested.

With a 6-1 victory over Batchelor's eleven, the Navy continued its winning course in the Wednesday Soccer League at Beacon Hill yesterday, while Saanich United humbled the Hudson's Bays with a 3-2 defeat at the Royal Athletic Park.

By virtue of their victory the sailors remain at the top of the league with two wins, Saanich United stands second with a win and a draw, Batchelors third with a draw and a loss, and the Bays, last year's champions, are in the cellar with two defeats.

Next week Saanich United will make a determined bid for first honors against the Navy at Beacon Hill, with Armstrong refereeing, while the Bays will try conclusion with Batchelors at the Royal Athletic Park.

Taking advantage of their penalty shots, Saanich United hammered in a 3-2 victory over Hudson's Bay at the Royal Athletic Park. Three free shots were given during the game. Teddy Hawkes, Saanich playing manager, netted the ball on both awarded to his team, while Jack Payne hit the post with the only shot given to the Bays.

Ding-dong play featured the match during the first half. Both forward lines played good combination games, but had difficulty in finding the net with their shots. The Bays had a chance to score twenty-five minutes from the start when Referee Oliver gave them a penalty after Rigby had handled in the forbidden zone, but Payne hit the upright.

SCORED AFTER CORNER

About half an hour from the commencement, the storemen forced play into Saanich's ground and finally gained a corner. Armstrong sent in a pretty cross. Blanco received the ball but lost it to Payne before he could clear. Payne banged in a hard drive that Restall had no chance to save to open the scoring.

For the remainder of the period both lines of attack worked hard, but failed to register any further counters.

Ten minutes after the opening of the second half Saanich pressed into the Bay territory. Barry took the ball and brought the count to a tie with a hard drive from close in.

The United continued to press and went into the lead when Hawkes netted a penalty kick given when one of the Bays' backs handled.

ON EVEN TERMS

Two minutes later, Long, inside right for the storemen, broke through the suburban boys' defence and brought the teams to even terms with a sizzler that whizzed between the posts before Retall could move.

Again Saanich took up the attack and hemmed the storemen in their own ground. For the second time the United were given a penalty and Hawkes banged in the deciding counter.

During the remainder of the half both teams played about evenly with no further score being made. Ashe, Saanich fullback, was taken from the field during this phase of the match with an injured leg.

Armstrong refereed and the teams line up as follows:

Saanich United—Restall, Ashe, Barry, Moir, Love, Stonier, Rigby, Hawkes, Blanco, Tooby and Cann.

Hudson's Bays—Shrimpton, Wallace, Armstrong, Oakman, Woodley, Moores, Newell, Long, Fish, G. Payne, J. Payne.

NAVY TAKES ANOTHER

At the Beacon Hill grounds the Navy continued their winning streak when they handed the Batchelors' eleven a 6-2 defeat. The score is not a fair indication of the play, as Batchelors were without the services of their regular goal-tender and at one time in the second half the score stood at two-all.

The Navy elected to play downhill the first half and started the game with a bombardment on the grocery boys' goal, but Purdey, who was filling in between the sticks, was safe and play returned to centre field. The tars were trying hard and forced two corners, with no result.

After the first five or ten minutes Batchelors' forwards began to find their feet and the Navy goal suffered some narrow escapes. Bob Addie had a glorious chance to score, but he was pulled up for offside with no one but the opposing goalie to beat. Play stayed in centre field for a while and then Johnston substituted in goal and Purdey came out to his regular place on the forward line. This considerably strengthened Batchelors and the game became more even.

PASSED UP CHANCES

Batchelors passed up two or three good chances to score through over-eagerness in front of the goal and then the pressure was relieved with a well-directed kick from the Navy backs which brought the play well into the food stores' territory.

The first breaks of the game came when McIlimoyle handled the ball in the forbidden territory. Spriddell took the kick for the Navy, but shot wide. Twice the Navy had good chances to break into the scoring column, but the first one was shot over the bar and McIlimoyle successfully worried Spriddell into shooting the next one wide. The Navy were trying hard and forced another corner, Cozier took the kick and placed a perfect one in the goal mouth. Marr got his head to it, and Batchelors were one down. Navy continued the pressure, but Cozier was pulled up for offside.

Both teams were playing a good game, with the Navy having a slight edge. Batchelors forwards could not seem to get going, although Taylor on right wing was sending over some perfect centres.

SECOND TALLY

The second goal for the tars was score in the same way as the first. Cozier placed a beautiful corner kick that curved around the bar and in the mix-up was headed in.

Shortly after this the whistle sounded for half-time with the Navy leading 2-0.

After the rest period Batchelors came back strong and less than two minutes after the whistle Taylor centred and the centre-forward beat the Navy goalie for Batchelors' first goal. Immediately following the centre, the store's forwards swept up the field again, and Addie brought the scores even when he beat the goalie on a nice pass from Purdey.

Batchelors were playing well and forced two corners which, however, came to naught. The Navy goalie was caught walking with the ball and Batchelors were awarded a free kick but Taylor booted it over the bar. Both defences were playing well and the play stayed in mid-field with plenty of long kicking being done.

WENT TO PIECES

Plater passed up a good chance for Batchelors on a pass from Taylor and a moment later had hard luck when his shot skimmed past the upright. Play changed ends and then during a mix-up in the Batchelors goal mouth the ball was bundled in for the Navy's third goal. During the remainder of the play Batchelors seemed to go to pieces and the Navy drove in three more goals from the toes of Spriddell, Marr and Barnes respectively, making the score at the final whistle 6-2 in favor of the sailors.

Robinson played his usual good game for the Navy, while the Batchelors whole team work hard.

"Scotty" McKay refereed and the teams were:

Batchelors' Pure Food Stores: Johnston, Davies, McIlimoyle, Main, Wright, Gibney, Taylor, Addie, Purdey, Plater and Windle.

Navy—Plummer, Tapley, Plummer, Robinson, C. Whyte, Marr, Spriddell, McDonald, Cozier, Walker and Thwaites.

RAIN THREATENS THIRD GAME BUT FANS OPTIMISTIC

Pre-series Dope Is Scrambled Hopelessly as Teams Journey Back to A's Home Town for Next Encounter in World Baseball Contest; Weather Man Suggests Rain May Mean Postponement of Tomorrow's Game; Quinn and Bush May Pitch.

By BRIAN BELL, Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago, Oct. 10—With most of the pre-series dope scrambled beyond repair, the Cubs and Athletics to-day moved from Chicago to Philadelphia to resume play to-morrow.

The enthusiasm of the American Leaguers as they returned to their home and fireside knew no bounds for they had done all that they could at Chicago, winning the only two games played. The Cubs, on the other hand, were a grim but determined ball club as they left home, not to return unless they can take two of the three games scheduled at Shibe Park.

Optimism, however, was rampant among the National League representatives even after the second defeat in a contest in which the Chicagos were never in the game.

CHANCES OF RAIN

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—Baseball fans in this world's series town who have been on the verge of going into ecstasies over the the double victory of the Athletics over the Cubs, found something to worry about to-day.

The weatherman predicted a possibility of rain Friday, the day of the first series game to be held here and the fans fear he may be right. There is an unfavorable atmospheric condition hovering about in the offing, according to the weather experts, with cooler weather and lowering skies on tap for to-day.

Rain is the worst thing that could happen on Friday, in the opinion of 40,000 rabid fans, who have waited fifteen years to see a world series game.

QUINN VERSUS BUSH

Aboard the Athletics Special en Route to Philadelphia, Oct. 10—The Philadelphia Athletics drew nearer their home fortifications to-day, still firmly convinced that the world's series of 1929 would be ended on the eastern front. Having conquered Root and Malone in straight games in the western campaign, the confident young Mackmen are in no doubt of their ability to repeat the performance at Shibe Park.

A survey of the Chicago pitching situation, if any, reveals that Joseph McCarthy's logical course must be to toss these two same young men back at the Athletics. Although handicapped by English's two errors in the ninth inning of the opening game, Guy Bush still failed to convince the assembled populace that he had recovered from the blind staggers he suffered toward the close of the National League campaign. He remains, however, a possibility for the Philadelphia opener.

The auxiliary managers of the Athletics continued to-day to favor John Quinn to pitch the third game. Quinn himself was so worked up over the situation that he sat up an hour later than usual with his inevitable cross-word puzzles.

By DALE HARRISON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Chicago, Oct. 10—Just as well that the Cubs and Athletics were on their way to Philadelphia to-day. The home guards, choking on two Cub defeats, were beginning to get the heebie-jeebies. There were plenty of smart explanations for the Cubs losing the first game, most of them being Mrs. Ehmke's boy Howard; but the alibi artists got lockjaw trying to give any sane excuse for the 9-3 disaster yesterday.

"The Cubs," said the sages Monday, "are the greatest home park club in the country."

The Cubs thereupon vessed them to the extent of losing the only home park games played.

PARADE OF PITCHERS

For those fans who had only two days in which to look over the Cubs, the games were not without advantages. The fans had a chance to look over most of the Cubs' pitching staff. As the pitchers marched in and out of the box yesterday, one scoffiaw remarked a resemblance to the Parade of the Wooden Soldiers.

By the end of the second game Kiki Cuyler had won the new sobriquet of "Strike-strike" Cuyler, having struck out five times in two days. He was just one, however, of a noble company of strikers-out, including Hornsby. Hack Wilson, Chicago's own Behemoth of Swat, was the only Cub slugger to atone for opening day failures, getting three hits.

QUESTIONABLE HONOR

Thirteen more Cub strikeouts yesterday put Mr. McCarthy's bright young men in the shadow of setting a new record in this department, which is one of those decorations nobody likes.

Getting on the special train last night, the Cubs learned that the railroad hoped to get the team into Philadelphia even faster than by their crack trains. Hearing this, one of the boys said: "It may go as fast as it can, but Grove's speedball would make it look like a freight backing up to take on water."

MALONE PITCHED BADLY TO FOXX BROWN DECLARES

Cubs Looked Worse Than They Really Are, Famous Old Pitcher Says

BY MORDECAI, "THREE-FINGERED" BROWN

Famous Pitcher of the Old Chicago Championship Cubs

Chicago, Oct. 10.—They don't play the game we used to play. Maybe they are better, but, after watching the Athletics beat the Cubs in the second game of the series, I don't know whether I know baseball or not.

The game was decided by Foxx's home run, but, before that happened Cochrane made a hit that might have been prevented by careful pitching, and Simmons walked when there was no real reason for passing him. There were two out, and Simmons looked fairly easy—and yet was given a base on balls.

I thought Malone pitched badly to Foxx and allowed him to hit a fast ball over the wall.

Nothing else counted much, but the Cubs seemed to lose their fight and hustle after they smashed up in the fourth inning.

I don't know, but it seemed to me Malone might have pitched a better game had he been permitted to use his own judgment regarding batters, and I am sure that the umpire on balls and strikes was tough on all the pitchers—not that it affected the result, but it might have done so.

The Cubs, my old team, looked bad—and looked worse all through the game than they really are. The Athletics looked as if they have the jump on them, just as they did nineteen years ago, I'm still hoping, but not so cheerfully as before the series started.

Missions Make It Two Straight Over Hollywood in Coast Play-off

San Francisco, Oct. 10.—In a free-hitting contest yesterday San Francisco Mission Reds bludgeoned out an 8-6 victory to make it two straight over Hollywood Stars in the post-season championship series for the 1929 Pacific Coast League pennant. After the Stars had opened with a run, the Missions put over two tallies in their half of the first frame, and held the lead until the eighth when the visitors tied the count at six-all.

A homer through the right field fence screen by Scott, Mission centre field, broke the deadlock. Slade followed with a double, went to third on Baldwin's sacrifice and came home on a sharp single by Pitcher Bert Cole. The teams play here again to-day and will finish the battle of the split season in Los Angeles beginning Friday.

Capitals and C.P.S. Clash in Feature Cage Engagement as Programme Gets Under Way for 1929-30 Season; Several New Stars Will Turn Out; Redbirds and Fidelis Renew Old Tussle, While Y.M.C.A. Entry Will Make First Appearance Against Keating.

The basketball season for 1929 will officially open at the Victoria High School to-morrow night, when three games will be played in three different divisions. With additional teams in all sections of the league basketball should flourish here this year.

Archie McKinnon's Y.M.C.A. team and the Keating squad, last year's winners in the Senior B section, will meet in the first game and a good contest is expected. The "Y" boys have lined up a good bunch of ball handlers with Johnny Craig, formerly of the champion Kamloops team, leading the parade. Craig played in several games with the Capitals last year. Other players on the team are Albert Acres, sharpshooting forward; Ralph Bagley, Laurie Greenwood, former C.P.S. player; and Johnny Rowlands.

Keating will have practically the same team as last year with Ralph Michell as the spark plug. Michell was rated as the outstanding forward in the "B" league last year, and was a big factor in the team's showing. His two brothers will also be in the line-up as will the Bates brothers.

WELL MATCHED RIVALS

Fidelis and the Red Birds, old rivals, will take the floor in the second game to renew the battles of other years. These teams are quite evenly matched, although the First Church squad has a slight edge in the majority of games played. The Red Birds are a much younger team, and had they been able to keep their line-up intact for the last two years would probably have been the outstanding team on the Island, as they have on several occasions uncorked speed galore, only to have misfortunate hit their ranks in the shape of injuries. The team will be quite different this year as several of last year's players are not on. Fidelis will trot forth the old guard, and will likely be as consistent as ever. Isobel Crawford, Bona McMurchie, Kathie Freeman and the two Foubisters complete the line-up.

The Red Birds will have Etta Maynard, Berta Peden, Dot Lee, Biddy Boyce and Torrie Rennie in uniform.

SENIOR TEAMS PLAY

The two senior teams of last year will tangle in the final game of the evening. The Capitals, last year's winners, and the C.P.S. have been rivals for several seasons and the lumbermen have on numerous occasions taken the Capitals for a ride. The former took the Island knockout in easy fashion last year and are counting on making a good showing this year. They have made a few changes but the line-up is pretty well the same. The Capitals have a number of new players and practically corralled the market for senior material. Poli Howar, former Prince Rupert star, seems to be the catch of the season and will be the keyman of their attack this year. He is a great worker and is in on every play at each end of the floor. Bill Irvine, former Toronto Y.M.C.A. player, a highly touted player, will probably be seen to advantage.

Tommy Forbes, star of last year's High School team, will wear the colors of the Caps and his deadly shooting will come in handy. Randy Tervo, former Jordan River luminary, is turning out with the team and although he did not play last year, is said to have his old shooting which established him as the best forward in the league two years ago. Outside of these four players the line-up will be the same with Norm Forbes, Jack McKenzie, Waldo Skillings, Alec. Cudlip, Art Boyd and Art Webster. Lewis Fatt, who played guard, will not turn out this year and he will be missed, being one of the fastest players in senior company in the city.

CHANGES MADE

The C.P.S. have made several changes but will have practically the same players with the addition of two new ones in the persons of George Warnock and Eddie Viggers. The latter was a sensation in the Senior "B" League last year and will prove a valuable acquisition to the lumbermen. The other players are, George Davies, George Fagerburg, Stew Skillings, Gordon Woolridge and Raplh Butler.

Peden Bros. the third team in the "A" section, make the new entry and while they could not field a team this week will be right in the race for the honors inside of a week or so. Handicapped by lack of material they could not get started early. However, with a number of young players included in their line-up they will endeavor to make make things interesting for the rest of the teams in the section. Joe Ross, of last year's Duncan team, rated one of the best defence men on the Island, will play one of the guard positions, while Chuck Chapman, who played in the Intermediate "A" League last year with the College, and Tom Little, formerly of Victoria College and Normal School, will be the other defence men. The forward line will be taken care of by Tommy Wachter, Stan Moore and Bud Hocking. The latter three have played Senior "A" before with several local teams. Moore and Wachter are rated as being exceptionally good and have played together on several teams.

Bill Blair will referee all games.

Jimmy McLarnin Finds Bigger Fellows Drop Just As Easily

New York, Oct. 10.—Jimmy McLarnin has learned that the bigger fellows can fall just as hard as the little ones if they are hit on the irght spot. Jimmy made his debut as a full-fledged welterweight last night and his punch produced the same result against Sergeant Sammy Baker as it did against Jimmy's opponents in three lighter classes.

The result was a first-round knockout.

It took one minute for McLarnin to establish a firm connection between his right fist and Baker's head. The New York veteran went down for a count of nine only a few seconds later and arose just to take a final blow from Jimmy's right that ended the battle in two minutes of the first round.

Baker did not recover for several minutes after he was counted out. McLarnin tipped the scales at 144 pounds and had to concede only a two-pound advantage to his adversary.

INFANT PRODIGY KNOCKED OUT

London, Oct. 10.—Johnny Cuthbert, British featherweight champion, knocked out Pat Daly, most promising infant prodigy of the British boxing world, in the eighth round of their bout at the Stadium Club last night. Daly is barely seventeen years old.

MADISON DIX SLUGS WAY TO VICTORY

Bellingham, Wash., Oct. 10—Madison Dix, local welterweight, slugged his way to a thrilling six-round win over Cecil Geysel, Seattle, in the main event on the American Legion card here last night. Cliff Brock, 150, of Bellingham, decisioned Bill Baker of Vancouver, B.C., in the six-round semi-final.

WHIRLWIND FINISH GETS CALL

Oakland, Calif., Oct. 10—Coming from behind with a whirlwind rally in the closing session, Freddie Fitzgerald, ringwise youngster, from Youngstown, Ohio, beat Young Jack Thompson at his own game to win a ten-round decision over the crack Los Angeles negro welterweight at the East Bay Athletic Club last night.

Miss Eileen Joel, daughter of the financier, Sol Joel, riding Miss Wilful, Nancy Madden on Indelible and Dorothy Saunders on Fay Toy, were unplaced.

A Best Seller

"Not by accident or chance does a cigar become a 'best seller'. One man does not take another man's word for a cigar as a rule. He tries it. If he likes it he buys it again and again. When enough men do this then a cigar becomes a 'best seller', but only on its own merit. For years—nearly 40 years—the MARGUERITE has been a 'best seller' because of its uniformly high quality—always good—and today, if anything, better than ever."

THREE WHALERS LEAVE STATION FOR VICTORIA

Green, Blue and Grant Expected Over Week-end From Queen Charlottes

Alaskan Station Also Closing Down and Whalemen Are Coming South

Bound for Victoria where they will berth for the winter months, the three whaling ships Green, William Grant and Blue, left Naden Harbor, in the Queen Charlotte Islands, early this morning. They are expected here late Sunday night or early Monday morning.

The other three whalers Brown, Black and White are already in port, having arrived from Rose Harbor ten days ago, after one of their most successful seasons in recent years. Although no figures regarding the Naden Harbor catch were available this morning, it is thought that it will also be heavier than in other years.

Seattle, Oct. 10.—Whalers employed at stations of the Pacific Whaling Company, soon will be heading for Seattle after a successful season in Western Alaska. One hundred and twenty men will be brought to this port from Akutan and Port Hobron by vessels fo the Alaska Steamship Company, according to plans being considered to-day.

The steamship Victoria, which sailed this morning on her last voyage this year to Bering Sea, will call at Akutan for sixty whaling station employees. The vessel is going to Nome and Golovin and will call at Dutch Harbor and Akutan on both her northbound and homeward voyages.

The steamship Alameda, sailing from Seatle at 9 a.m., Saturday, will be sent from Seward to Port Hobron, Kodiak Island, for sixty whaling station employees. The Alameda is expected back in this port October 26 or 27 and the Victoria will arrive between November 9 and 10.

Officials of the American Pacific Whaling Company said yesterday that unfavorable weatiher had been experienced by the whaling fleet, but conditions now were improving and the season's operations would be successful.

There are seven whaling vessels in the fleet of the American Pacific Whaling Company, the Kodiak, Unimak, Paterson, Westport, Tanginak, Aberdeen and Moran. The first four vessels operate from Port Hobron and the last three from Akutan.

AORANGI IN FROM SOUTH SEAS TO-DAY

Big Motor Liner Arrives Nearly Twenty-four Hours Ahead of Schedule

Brings Light Passenger List From Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu

Nearly twenty-four hours ahead of time due to fine weather encountered during the voyage from Honolulu, the Canadian-Australasian motor liner Aorangi docked at the Rithet piers this morning at 11 o'clock, completing a three weeks voyage from Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu. She left for Vancouver at 1 o'clock this afternoon, and is expected to tie up at the mainland port shortly after 6 o'clock this evening.

Capt. Robert Crawford, master of the big motor ship, reported an uneventful voyage from "down under." The weather was exceptionally good all the way he said, and the passengers had enjoyed a beautiful trip. On account of the rather small list in all classes there had not been much excitement to the voyage, although it was pleasant and restful one. Smiling skies and smooth seas had enabled the travelers to enjoy the decks to the utmost, and for most of the days the passengers sat in the deck chairs enveloped in cozy rugs while they watched the more energetic play shuffleboard and deck tennis.

There were only 178 passengers in all classes aboard the Aorangi when she docked this morning. Of these seventy-two were in the first class, forty-four in the second and sixty-two in the third. Several in the three classes left the ship at this port, proceeding to Seattle this afternoon aboard the regular steamer. A number of the passengers were destined for England, and will leave Vancouver tonight for the Atlantic seaboard, where they will sail for Europe.

FAIR CARGO

For discharge here the ship had eighty tons of general cargo in her holds, while 1,100 tons of general went on to Vancouver. This was mostly made up of New Zealand butter and frozen mutton.

Among those passing through Victoria aboard the Aorangi to-day were P. H. Angus, a New Zealand railway engineer; Lieut.-Commander Black, an officer of the Royal Navy; George Foley of the Australasia branch of the General Motors; A. W. Heyes, a dairy produce, director of New Zealand; T. Hues, a retired ship owner; E. Spragg, of the Colonial Sugar Refining Company; Surgeon Commander Joy, of the Royal Navy; F. Lord, also of the Colonial Sugar Refining Company; E. Kirsh, of the General Motors Company.

HEAD STEWARD OF RESTORER PASSES AWAY

John A. Robb Served on Board Cableship For Nearly Twenty-five Years

After nearly twenty-five years' active service aboard the cableship Restorer in many parts of the world, John A. Robb, chief steward of that ship, passed away in the St. Joseph's Hospital early this morning after a lingering illness, which had kept him off duty for a year.

Mr. Robb first came to Canada in 1907, landing at Esquimalt in that year aboard the Restorer, which he joined previously at Singapore. Outside of the short time at Singapore and a few years at Honolulu, Mr Robb had resided aboard the Restorer at Victoria and Esquimalt. He was sent from England to Singapore in 1904 to join the Restorer.

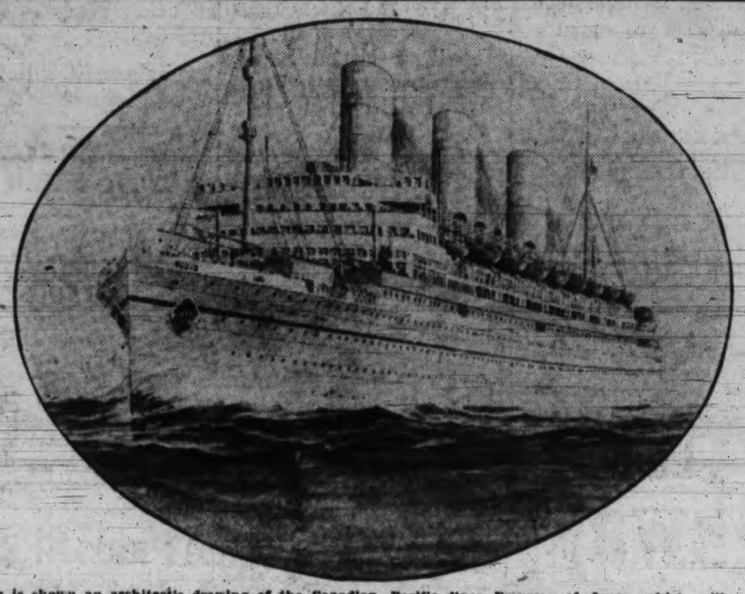
A great lover of animals of all kinds, the late Mr. Robb brought an old horse which had once helped to save his life in Honolulu, to Victoria aboard the Restorer. He kept the faithful animal well housed at Esquimalt for many years, visiting it whenever possible. A few years ago, however, the horse became so feeble that Mr. Robb was forced to shoot it. He also kept a number of high-class dogs on property he leased many years ago from the Hudson's Bay Company, on the site where are now homes of the officials of the Government drydock.

Mr. Robb was born at Croydon, England, sixty-five years ago. He is survived by a sister-in-law, Mrs. Dudley Robb of Victoria and four nieces, Mrs L. G. Gray, Mrs. William Crawford and Mrs. Owen Jones of Victoria and Mrs. C. Chitty of Chilliwack.

The remains are reposing at the McCall Funeral Home on Johnson Street and will be forwarded to Vancouver for cremation. They will be brought back to Victoria and distributed over Mr. Robb's old property at Esquimalt, in accordance with the wish expressed in his will.

Funeral service will be read in the McCall Chapel on Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, the last rites to be under the auspices of United Service Lodge, No. 24, A.F. & A.M. The remains will be forwarded to Vancouver on the afternoon boat.

WILL SOON BE LAUNCHED FOR PACIFIC RUN



Above is shown an architect's drawing of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan which will soon be launched at the Fairfield shipbuilding plant on the Clyde. She will be here next summer, the present schedule calling for her arrival here from the Orient on August 22. She will be the largest liner on the north Pacific, having a weight of 25,000 tons.

Nineteen Survivors Nearly Exhausted When Help Arrived

Bretagne Captain, Wife, Son, and Daughter and Kanaka Sailors in Open Boat Twenty-one Hours

San Pedro, Cal., Oct. 10.—Nineteen survivors of the French fourmasted schooner Bretagne, which foundered and sank in the North Pacific October 4, were landed here yesterday by the steamer Whitney Olsen. They had been picked up fifteen miles off Umatilla, Ore., October 5, all crowded in one open boat. No loss of life was reported.

Those rescued included Capt. Henry Ozanne of the Bretagne, his son Jean, who acted as first mate; his wife, Mme Leo Ozanne, and their daughter, Mlle. Jeanne Ozanne; Rene Casse, the Bretagne's radio operator and fourteen Kanaka sailors.

The Bretagne had sailed from Vancouver, B.C., with a cargo of lumber for Papeete, when a twelve-degree list developed. Early on the morning of October 4 she heeled over forty-five degrees, flooded the radio room so that Casse was unable to send an SOS call for help and sank shortly afterward. All on board were forced to crowd into one boat, the position of the vessel having jammed the other two on the davits.

They pulled at the oars for twenty-one hours, several ships passing them by in the darkness. On the morning of October 5, the lookout aboard the Whitney Olsen sighted the bobbing boat and the almost exhausted occupants were picked up.

ESKIMOS SHUN MODERN MUSIC

Seattle, Oct. 10.—Ancient Eskimo implements, death masks used by the natives on the Arctic rim of Alaska and valuable carvings, which will be presented to the University of Washington, were brought to Seattle by the sailing schooner C. S. Holmes which arrived Tuesday after a trading cruise to Point Barrow. The vessel also brought a fortune in furs, ivory and whalebone.

Capt. John Backland, youthful skipper of the C. S. Holmes and former student of the Univeristy of Washington, who has developed a liking for adventure, made at least one observation during his brief visit near the top of the world.

NATIVES FEAR RADIO

"Eskimos don't like the radio," said Capt. Backland. "Even those most musically inclined shun the mystery of it. Phonographs—they are just fine, for they can see the disk go around and tell what causes the music. But radios—who can tell but the music comes from spirits hovering over the North Pole."

Capt. Backland and his crew had an exciting experience while off Wainwright on the Arctic Coast. A big gale came up and threatened to finish the famous trading schooner. After four anchors had been lost and there was danger of the vessel being driven ashore, Capt. Backland set all sail and rode for 100 miles before the storm. The gale carried him around Point Barrow and finally died out. The storm struck the Arctic Coast September 15. It came roaring in from the west, Capt. Backland said.

SALVAGE KING OFF TO RAISE FISH SEINER

Gradac Partially Sank Near Kyuquot Yesterday

Striking a rock at Markdale, near Kyuquot, on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, the seine fishing boat Gradac, owned and operated by the Canadian Packing Corporation of Victoria, filled with water and partially sank yesterday afternoon, according to word received in Victoria. The steamer Salvage King left her berth in the Inner Harbor early this morning for the scene of the accident.

It is expected the King will reach Kyuquot early to-morrow morning and will make quick work of raising the seiner. The Gradac is about thirty feet in length. On board the Salvage King when she steamed out of Victoria harbor this morning was Harry A. Barnett, local surveyor for the San Francisco Board of Marine Underwriters, who will make a survey of the damage.

The Gradac has been employed in the fishing business off the coast all summer in company with a number of other boats from the Canadian Packing Corporation. Headquarters of the corporation on the coast is at Ceepeecee, just north of Nootka.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

The time used is Pacific standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

Every Cold is Serious

Any cold is serious enough when its dreadful possibilities are considered, but when there is soreness or tightness in the chest and a dry hard cough you can look for bronchitis, which is often confused with an ordinary cold.

It is usually known by aching limbs, and body pains, chilly feelings, weariness and weakness, pain in the chest and and a tight, tearing cough. Fever, dry skin, thirst, coated tongue and constipation are other symptoms.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine seems almost like a specific for bronchitis because it is so successful in loosening up the cough, aiding expectoration and relieving the inflammation.

AT THE THEATRES

"BIRD IN HAND" OPENS TO-NIGHT

John Drinkwater's Famous English Comedy Will Play Here Until Saturday

To-night will mark the commencement of the new theatrical season at the Royal Victoria Theatre and the appearance, for the first time here, of John Drinkwater's celebrated English comedy, "Bird in Hand," which has already achieved such a remarkable success in London and New York.

"Bird in Hand" is being presented on this continent by Lee Shubert, the prominent American theatre magnet, who has left the entire direction and selection of the English players to Mr. Drinkwater, so that the English comedy could be played here precisely as it was done more than a year ago at the Royal Theatre, London.

While John Drinkwater needs little in the way of introduction to local play-goers, it can hardly be mentioned without recalling his previous great success of a decade ago, "Abraham Lincoln," which ran for a year in London, and a full season in New York. He followed that with his "Mary Stuart," "Oliver Cromwell" and "Robert E. Lee." However, new honors and higher prestige has since been added to his name with the production of "Bird in Hand" for he is no longer recognized as primarily a biographical dramatist, but rather is now included among England's greatest contemporary literary figures.

Among those who will be seen in "Bird in Hand" to-night are: Freda Bruce Lockhart, Olga Slade, Percy Rhodes, Denis Mantell, Eliott Makeham, Richard Littledale, Douglas Jeffriers and Arthur Ridley.

Where To Go To-night

THE SCREEN

Capitol—Douglas Fairbanks Jr. in "The Careless Age."
Coliseum—Fanny Brice's "My Man."
Columbia—Corinne Griffith in "The Divine Lady."
Dominion—Marie Prevost in "The Flying Fool."
Playhouse—Olive Borden in "Love in the Desert."

THE STAGE

Royal Victoria—John Drinkwater's comedy, "Bird in Hand."
Crystal Garden—Swimming and Dancing.

YOUNG FAIRBANKS HAS STELLAR ROLE IN CAPITOL FILM

The cinematic career of Douglas Fairbanks Jr. consists of just one screen love-affair after another with older and sophisticated women!

In "The Barker," young Fairbanks succumbed to the wiles of Betty Compson. In "The Careless Age," the new First National-Vitaphone picture Carmel Myers is the siren who makes Fairbanks "forget the little girl waiting for him back home." But only for a time, for the little girl is Loretta Young.

"The Careless Age" is adapted from John van Druten's sensational stage play "Diversion," and will be presented with an all-star cast at the Capitol Theatre to-day, Friday and Saturday.

Five special concerts at the Empress Hotel this season, November 14, December 11, January 23, March 26, April 17

AERIAL PICTURE WITH GOOD CAST AT THE DOMINION

Appearing in a series of breath-taking, death-defying aerial exploits, "The Flying Fool" is now at the Dominion Theatre for a three-day run. It is a thrilling, all-talking air drama in which this popular player is supported by Marie Prevost, Tom O'Brien, Russell Gleason and other notable screen artists.

While this new air picture has an aviation background and contains some of the most sensational air stunts ever photographed, it is essentially a high powered drama of humor mingled skillfully and blended into a fine network of entertainment.

It is the story of a stunt flyer, who risks his life every day to satisfy a thrill-hungry mob. He is a devil-may-care personality whose other chief interest in life is women. But, he boasts, he has never fallen in love. Then his kid brother becomes interested in a cabaret entertainer and the "Flying Fool" decides to "save" him from this supposedly designing woman. What happens after that is plenty.

NOAH BEERY IS ARAB CHIEF IN PLAYHOUSE FILM

Noah Beery, famed "heavy" of filmdom, who is seen in the role of an Arab chief in FBO's "Love in the Desert" at the Playhouse Theatre, was named for Noah Webster, author of a well-known volume of very short stories, as was his father before him. More than that, the actor has a fourteen-year-old son in Hollywood named Noah Webster Beery. And he must have felt quite at home recently when he played one of the leading roles in "Noah's Ark."

POISE NECESSARY FOR WOMEN, STATES CORINNE GRIFFITH

Poise, according to Corinne Griffith, lovely star of "The Divine Lady," a First National picture now showing at the Columbia Theatre, is more essential to women than just physical beauty.

Miss Griffith, who is blessed with both, says that poise is an easy thing to cultivate if one gets into the habit of not allowing a temper to overcome judgment.

"Tantrums," a malady frequently enjoyed by the emotional woman, is one affliction that Miss Griffith refuses to recognize.

COLISEUM SHOWS F. BRICE NOVEL ON TALKIE REEL

A complete change of bill was made this afternoon at the Coliseum Theatre and for this evening's performance, "My Man," from the novel by Fanny Brice, is being produced over the new machine recently installed. The comedy and world news topics will also be changed this evening.

"My man" is one of the most outstanding dramas of its type, and the screen adaption from Miss Brice's famous work is splendidly done. A well chosen cast ably enacts the starring role, while a specially picked "extra" cast gives the principals excellent and helpful support.

Miss Fanny Brice's work will delight in this gripping portrayal of an age-old problem of man and woman, set in modern days. An all-talking and singing production, "My Man" is built around the title song of that name. Beautiful settings show this ancient theme from a fresh angle, striking and new. Miss Brice's interpretation of her star part more than justifies the claim she lays to fame.

GREAT RECEPTION PROMISED LAUDER

Famous Scotch Comedian Will Appear at Royal Theatre Monday and Tuesday

The preliminary interest that has been aroused by the announcement that Sir Harry Lauder, the famous singing comedian, and his company of entertainers, are to appear at the Royal Victoria on Monday and Tuesday next, with a matinee Tuesday, is not surprising. Lauder is one of the world's most interesting personalities. He is not only an artist to his finger tips; he is also an individual whom the great of the earth love to honor. His popularity is not confined to England, Scotland or the United States, but wherever the English language is spoken or understood Sir Harry is sure of finding friends and appreciative audiences. Recently he has concluded a notable Antipodean tour and everywhere he went he was acclaimed the world's greatest entertainer. In England he is the friend of royalty and the nobility, as well as the common people and in the United States he has been a guest at the White House and has been entertained by some of the country's most representative organizations.

Lauder's confessed mission in life—and his remarkable career proves the truth of it—is to radiate sunshine and friendship through the medium of his songs and homely stories. The theatres where he appears are rarely large enough to hold the crowds that want to hear him.

Since his last appearance on this continent Sir Harry has written a number of new songs, and several of those that made pronounced hits in London and the Far East will be presented here. With these there will be a revival of some of the most popular of the old songs.

Langford

L. G. Wilkinson has received news of the death of his mother in London, England. The late Mrs. Wilkinson is survived by two sons and two daughters in England, one son in Regina and L. G. Wilkinson of Goldstream Road, Langford.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cooney was visited on Tuesday evening by a jolly surprise party of their fellow members of the Langford Tennis Club. Dancing was enjoyed, the music being supplied by Austen Yate's jazz band. A delicious supper was served under the direction of Mrs. A. F. Bayles during which J. Stuart-Yates, honorary president of the club, called upon Mr. and Mrs. Cooney to accept a small souvenir as a token of appreciation from fellow members of the Langford Tennis Club, voicing the regret of all their friends at their decision to leave the district. Mrs. Cooney heartily thanked the members for the real surprise and Mr. Cooney said they would never forget their many kind friends in Langford. Community singing was enjoyed with R. A. Pennington at the piano. "Auld Lang Syne" and "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" brought the evening to the close.

SCIENTISTS MAKE GOLD BY NEW FORCE

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times

London, Oct. 10—After fifteen years of exacting and dangerous work, two Christchurch New Zealand scientists claim to have discovered an electro-magnetic process by which they are able to change certain elements into gold.

Their dicovery is based on an electro-magnetic force ten times more powerful than electricity, which is associated with the force of gravitation.

Wrapped up with this new energy is the force of transmutation, but not transmutation as is popularly understood. The research work cost £10,000.

A SOULLESS GOVERNMENT

To the Editor:—What will it profit a Government if in gaining every position for its hungry and rebellious henchmen it loses the respect of decent men and loses its own political soul?

Desperation and political exigency is swiftly drawing the Government of British Columbia to the edge of this precipice.

The latest crime—and it is a moral crime—to come into the focus of press publicity is shown in a dispatch from Vancouver, which informs us that "ten more employees of the Liquor Control Board have fallen victims to the swing of the foul axe of party patronage," for the alleged "crime" of protecting innocent purchasers of doubtful brands of L.B.C. liquors from committing potential suicide!

The charge giving the excuse (it is not a valid reason) for dismissing these highly experienced workers is that they were guilty (sic) of recommending certain brands of liquors in preference to others.

Is that, even allowing for his heetic desire to find excuses for dismissals, a "crime" in the eyes of the chief law officer of B.C.?

Where is the business man that would dismiss an employee for recommending any particular brand of goods on his shelves? Good salesmanship is the art of giving entire satisfaction to the customer.

But the L.B.C. being an autocratic monopoly is not under the necessity of having to please its customers, either in quality or selection or advising them as to the qualities or otherwise of its goods. Competition is confined to the bootleggers, who are selling agents of the L.B.C. goods, or of their own poisonous manufactures. The ten men just dismissed for honest salesmanship were performing a public duty to their fellow men, and their dismissal for that reason connotes the intention of the present Government to force on the public dishonest goods sold by men appointed for that purpose.

Knowing that the shelves of vendor's stores are filled with containers of spirituous liquors whose contents belie the description so artistically described on the outside, the dismissed men performed a brotherly, christian duty if they really did advise innocent and ignorant intending purchasers to buy something less potent than they asked for, thus keeping many a man in a condition to follow his employment when Monday came, or from the lockup or the conceivable visitation of a menagerie of multi-colored reptiles following his annihilation of a quart or two of alleged "five-year-old blend!"

So the excuse given for the "firing" of these men, as also all others, starting with that very highly respected Vancouver lady, Mrs. McGill, since the inception of this patronage crazed administration, is too thin to blind any but the shell-back party followers, themselves awaiting the fall of the remaining plums into their anxious hungry, slavering maws.

The fact that some of the wrongfully dismissed men are returned soldiers adds fuel of contempt to the fire of disgust already kindled in the hearts of clean-minded people. Thousands of dollars of public money have been spent and continue to be spent in constructing and operating a silver net to trap the unwary servants of the people, and the only "fish" they have trapped up to date are mostly small fry showing marks of Liberal hatcheries. Our sporting Attorney-General is quick to discern the variety and quick to kill the unwanted and undesirables using the Tory preserves. It is useless for Hons. Mr. Pooley, Mr. Shelly or Mr. Hinchliffe to protest that the places of dismissed employees are being filled with returned soldiers. It is not true in the sense they wish it to be accepted.

The new appointees are not selected because they are returned soldiers, but because they are members of the party and so recommended.

It is also useless to protest that the late Government was as guilty of these despicable tactics.

Two blacks don't make a white, and it is high time this rotten and dishonest method of getting back at enemies and recompensing party workers at the cost of breaking the hearts of old servants and punishing their innocent wives and children was put a stop to.

The Tory Government is living up to its promises to its cohorts and fulfilling the threats it made prior to and after election—"to the victors the spoils!"

But on the other hand Premier Tolmie can get little satisfaction out of this disgraceful situation, in face of his own declaration—and I sincerely believe it was an honest declaration—that patronage would go with his accession to the Premiership. Patronage has gone, but not in the manner or direction Hon. S. F. Tolmie intended. Patronage has gone—on a rampage!

The Cabinet colleagues are inebirated and stupified with the fumes of ministerial power! Can Premier Tolmie place them on the water wagon of decency and commonsense before they get the straight jackets of public condemnation?

Millionaire Dreamed of Owning Little Store.

John D. Ryan's father was a miner. He worked in the great copper mines near their home. The boy grew up playing around the mines.

Now he had firmly made up his mind that he wasn't going to have anything to do with copper when he grew up. He wouldn't follow in his father's footsteps. He wanted to do something quite different and interesting. In fact, he was going to be a storekeeper.

His Uncle Ed ran a little general store where everything anyone could want, it seemed to John, was to be found. He often promised the boy that when he was old enough he could work in the store. That seemed a wonderful future to the boy. He thought that some day, if he was successful, he might even own a store of his own.

When he was seventeen he realized his dream and went to work in his uncle's store.

Strangely enough, he tired of the store business and tried something else. When he grew up he became one of the world's richest men and head of the great copper mines in which his father had worked as a miner. So he made his fortune in copper, after all. He was born October 10, 1864.

STOP USING A TRUSS

Free Demonstration

Stuart's Plapao-Pads are different from the truss, being mechanico-chemico applicators made self-adhesive purposely to keep the herbal muscle-tonic called "PLAPAO" continuously applied to the affected parts, and to minimize danger of slipping and painful friction. The fabric is soft as velvet, and being adhesive, it clings to the body, without straps, buckles or springs. Easy to apply—comfortable — inexpensive. The epidermatic absorption of the "PLAPAO" and the utilization of "mechanico - chemico therapy," tend toward a natural process of recovery, after which no further use for a truss. During 23 years, thousands have successfully treated their ruptures at home, without delay from work. Awarded Gold Medal, Rome; Grand Prix, Paris; Honorable Mention, San Francisco, etc.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

By SISTER MARY

The fact that sweet potatoes live up to their name and contain a large amount of sugar makes them an excellent energy-producing food.

Compared with Irish potatoes, the food value is higher in fat and carbohydrates but lower in protein. One-half of a baked sweet potato provides 100 calories while one whole medium-sized baked Irish potato is needed to furnish the 100 calories portion. Both sweet and Irish potatoes are excellent carriers for fat, since their palatability depends much on a generous seasoning of butter.

The vitamin content of sweet potatoes is lower than that of white. Vitamin A is present in considerable quantity and vitamin B is found in small amounts, while little is known about the vitamin C content. The mineral content is lower, also, but when these deficiencies are made up by other food stuffs, "sugar spuds" offer an appetising change from white potatoes. Plain baked or boiled, they can be eaten by children over two years of age.

When sweet potatoes have appeared in the main course, a desert that is not very sweet should be chosen. Fresh fruit or a fruit whip, gelatine or ice is suitable.

It take longer to bake sweet potatoes than white ones. One and a half hours should be allowed for their baking.

Sweet potatoes are an extremely perishable vegetable and for this reason can't be purchased in as large a quantity as the hardy Irish varieties.

Sweet potatoes make excellent desserts. Boiled with the skins on, they are mashed, seasoned with butter, milk and a little salt and baked in individual cups with a marshmallow on top to make a good dessert for small children.

Sweet potatoe pie is very good and much like pumpkin pie. It requires less sugar, but must be quite highly seasoned.

Sweet Potato Pie

One cup of cooked and mashed sweet potato, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt.

Beat eggs with sugar and milk until light. Add salt, spices and butter to mashed potato and mix well. Add beaten eggs and milk, slowly beating to make smooth. Turn into a deep pie pan lined with plain pastry and bake fifty minutes in a moderate oven. When firm to the touch, the pie is done.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon complained to the Police Commission that access to the church on week days was prevented by cars parked all day outside the building. The commission ordered prohibition of all parking on Douglas Street for a distance of forty feet southward from Broughton Street, facing the main entrance to the church.

The ban on night parking of cars downtown will again be before the City Council, commissioners ordering forwarded for action a complaint from the Poodle Dog Cafe against the measure.

UNDERWRITERS TO AID BLIND

Life Insurance Agents Agree to Be Lieutenants in Canvass in Victoria

Whole-hearted support of the campaign to raise $150,000 for the western division of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, was given by the Victoria and Island Underwriters' Association at the luncheon at Spencer's to-day. Manifesting its approval of the project outlined by Fred Landsberg, the association agreed to ask every life insurance company manager in the city to act as the lieutenants of collecting bands here.

At the opening of the meeting John Dobbie, president of the association, urged the underwriters to support the appeal of the Western Institute for the Blind. He hoped the members would give some time to the canvassing.

Fred Landsberg, chairman of the canvass committee appointed at a special meeting last week, appealed to the underwriters to furnish one captain and five lieutenants to carry on the collecting work.

Fred McGregor stated he thought all managers of city insurance companies should be placed on the list of lieutenants. Manifesting his approval of the suggestion, H. Shade moved that all managers be requested to be lieutenants. The motion passed unanimously.

Mr. Landsberg then requested the association to submit the names of the men selected as soon as possible.

STATE HEALTH INSURANCE IS UNDER REVIEW

City Asked For Views on Subject of Voluntary or Compulsory Plan

State Health Insurance is the subject of a questionaire received by the city from the Royal Commission on State Health Insurance and Maternity Benefits, appointed by the Provincial Legislature. Members of the commission include C. F. Davie, chairman, L. E. Borden, Dr. J. J. Gillis, G. S. Pearson and W. F. Kennedy, all members of the Legislature. C. H. Gibbons is the secretary.

Is Victoria in favor of state health insurance, and if so, should it be on a voluntary or compulsory basis are the chief questions asked. Similiar questionaries have been sent out to every centre in the Province, in an effort to compile data to lay before an early meeting of the Royal Commission. The subject has been referred to the next meeting of the City Council, for discussion.

Saanich Residents Criticize Plan to Improve Lake Road

Fifty residents of McKenzie Avenue district of Saanich attended a meeting last night at McKenzie Avenue school to protest against expenditure of money by the Provincial Government upon development of Lake Road as a main traffic highway under the proposed new Arterial Highways scheme. H. L. Briggs was in the chair.

Speakers favored the development of Glanford Avenue, instead of Lake Road, and a deputation of five residents will wait on the Government in support of the proposed change in route.

The meeting also discussed suggestions that the Government be asked to convert the old Interurban railway right of way into a trunk highway.

RESIGNATION OF PASTOR ACCEPTED

First Baptist Church Meets Next Week to Consider Successor to Rev. J. Strachan

A meeting of the members of the First Baptist Church was held last evening to consider the resignation of the pastor, Rev. James Strachan.

The meeting was opened by the pastor, who in referring to his resignation stated that it was final, and that he had accepted the unanimous call of the Baptist Church at Saskatoon. The pastor before leaving called on the chairman of the executive board of the church, Robt. McIntosh, to take the chair, with A. Galbraith, as secretary.

After hearing expression of regret from many of the members of the church, showing the high esteem in which Mr. Strachan is held, not only in the church but throughout the city, the resignation was accepted. The best wishes of the congregation go with the pastor, Mrs. Strachan, and their family as they go to their new field of labor.

A special meeting of the church is called for Wednesday next to consider the future policy of the church.

Specifications will shortly be distributed and bids called for the new 18,000 horsepower generator, to be installed at the Jordan River power plant of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company Limited. The equipment required will include a water wheel, generator and transformers, and will bring the peak load water consumption of the power station up to the maximum capacity of the recently enlarged flume.

ESCAPED WITH LIFE AS SECRET SERVICE AGENT

T. C. S. Huss, Who Had Narrow Escapes in War, Now Enjoying Travel

After many years in the British secret service, T. C. S. Huss is enjoying a trip around the world. He arrived here to-day from Australia aboard the motor liner Aorangi, accompanied by his daughter. The countries visited include Egypt, Ceylon, India, China, Japan, Australia and New Zealand.

Mr. Russ was born in England, his father being a Swede and his mother an Italian. He has been traveling all his life, and has been in some dangerous predicaments, as indicated by his calling.

JEWELS STOLEN

Mr. Huss stated that he recently traveled over the Trans-Siberian Railway, as he had done several times before, but on this occasion, between Harbin and Peking, his passport, wallet, cash, personal papers and some valuable jewels were stolen.

Asked about the Manchurian trouble, Mr. Huss said it was difficult to gauge conditions in China, and it was impossible to analyze the political situation.

On the surface of things, affairs in China appeared to be improving. He found travel by the Trans-Siberian Railway fairly good. Extortion was practiced in exchange. Mr. Huss is still bound by his oath to maintain silence about his secret service work. He was chosen because of his linguistic ability.

HAD CLOSE CALLS

He admits that he had some very close calls, but now he smiles reminiscently and says that these things had better be forgotten.

During the war he was twice taken prisoner. On the first occasion he was interned in Bulgaria, but succeeded in making his escape. Later he was returning by a Swedish steamer to England when a U-boat captured the vessel and took him prisoner. He was held in Germany for two years as a political suspect, being interned at Celle Schloss, Hanover. He escaped twice, but was recaptured.

For some years Mr. Huss has been living in Monte Carlo.

P.-T.A. PROTESTS FOUR-YEAR HIGH SCHOOL COURSE

Oaklands Gathering Passes Resolution at Opening Meeting; Talk on Cooking

A resolution protesting against the proposed four-year course for High School students was passed at the first meeting of the winter season of the Oaklands Parent-Teacher Association held this week in the school auditorium. There was a good attendance of members and friends.

C. E. Mitchell gave an interesting talk on "Modern Methods of Cooking." After describing the different elements of which the human body is composed and their relation to plant life, and explaining the necessity of supplying the needs of the body as nature provided them, Mr. Mitchell gave a practical demonstration with cooked fruit and vegetables, showing how they could be made more palatable and still retain those elements most necessary for the building up of the body and the requirements of good health.

A guessing competition was held, the prize donated by Mr. Mitchell being won by Mrs. P. Rawnsley. Refreshments were served by the executive committee.

A five hundred card party is being arranged for Friday, October 18, at 8 o'clock to augment the school sports fund.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

Winnipeg, Oct. 10.—Wheat. Market generally dull and draggy. Opening prices were ¼ higher based on the cables which were stronger than due, but the buying power was very thin, offerings somewhat more free and the market quickly eased off, prices reaching 1¼ to 1½ under the close last night.

Trade was practically all local with the larger interests continuing to take the wheat as it came out, in an effort to hold the market. The cash wheat market was very slow with little doing either locally or export. Overnight business was very small with just a few loads worked here and there to both the continent and the United Kingdom. Millers were doing nothing and report flour demand very slack, both export and domestic. There was a little durum sold out of Montreal overnight, but spreads were unchanged, with offerings light. There were reports of light frost in parts of Argentine, but the B.A. market at midday was ¾ lower to ¼ higher.

The U.S. Government report was taken as slightly bearish, showing 6,000,000 bushels more wheat. Supplies of wheat continue to pile up in this country with the outlet extremely small and already lake boats are going into winter storage. The big holders of wheat in this country still feel confident of their position and are offering wheat abroad very sparingly and believe that Europe will be forced to come here shortly in a much broader way. In the meantime all business is practically frozen up.

Coarse Grains.—These markets were all lower with a very small business passing in the local pit. There is a fair business in low-grade oats being worked daily in Eastern Canada and some moderate sales of rye to Ontario and Quebec distillers. A feature of the cash oats and barley is the splendid demand in the country to go from one point to another, where there is a shortage of feeds.

Flax.—Market was rather soft today and some scattered liquidation going on and poor demand.

Chicago, Oct. 10—Wheat: The demand was easily satisfied to-day and in absence of support the market sold off sharply in early trade, holding close to low point balance of the day. The general situation shows but little change and there is nothing to stimulate activity in the market. There is a feeling that conditions will slowly shape up in favor of holders but so long as Europe shows such complete indifference, it is difficult to work up any sustained enthusiasm.

Export sales to-day were 400,000 bushels so far reported. The local cash basis was steady. Mills were reported good buyers at Minneapolis. On the declines there was some commission house buying, but trade volume dropped off considerably.

Argentine shipments were estimated at 4,595,000 bushels. Canadian country marketings 2,572,000 versus 4,619,000 bushels a year ago. Argentine news was bullish but had little influence. Temporarily, a two-sided market is indicated with a good demand likely to develop on the recessions.

Corn: Government October figures added to bear pressure on corn to-day, the market working lower. Cash basis was unchanged to ½ higher with sales of 30,000 bushels for shipment and 41,000 to arrive.

Government showed 72,000,000 bushels more than a month ago, but estimate of 2,528,000,000 is 308,000,000 bushels less than a year ago, which can hardly be considered bearish, especially in view of reductions in other feed grains. Receipts liberal here and in the west. Would advise a trading position pending the new crop movement, as bulges at this level will probably be hard to hold.

Oats: Lower with some local liquidation and commission house selling while the demand in general was slow.

VANCOUVER MINING MARKET

Miller, Court Over Leased Wires

Vancouver, Oct. 10—Mining stock prices showed few changes on the Vancouver Stock Exchange to-day.

The biggest mover of the day was Kootenay King, which took a nose-dive down to 17 on the report that Howe Sound Company were throwing up the option on the property after having spent a big sum diamond drilling it.

Big Missouri moved up to 1.00, after having been lower the last couple of days as a result of selling.

Topley-Richfield continues to receive support at 10 for all the stock that comes out.

Los Angeles-Vancouver, which has been under strong inside control for weeks, sold up to 1.90 to-day.

Miller, Court and Co. to-day stated that they considered the market in mines a buyers' market, while the outlook in the oils for a time is somewhat more two-sided.

CANADIAN CREDIT NOW ALL TIED UP IN HOLDING WHEAT FOR HIGHER PRICES

(By B.C. Bond Corporation Limited)

Montreal, Oct. 10. — Montreal Power to-day shot up 10 points to 175.

Brazilian went over the 70 mark again, by rising 2⅝ points to 71⅝.

Power Corporation sold up to 118¾.

Monteral, Oct. 10.—The Montreal market has been comparatively inactive, but has steadied up in the last week, since the lows of a week ago were reached.

More than $600,000,000 of quoted value have been shaken out of the local market since the first of September.

At the moment the internal situation does not tend to promote the optimism necessary to withstand selling in this market when New York turns weak.

Credit conditions in Canada are stringent and the money that will be necessary to support the wheat pool's position in holding Canadian wheat for higher prices does not help the situation any.

Money tied up in stored wheat cannot be used to finance either business or stock market transactions.

Bond Market Continues Gains

New York, Oct. 10.—The bond market extended its gains to-day under the favorable influence of the relatively easy money rates. Gains were most consistent in the rails, especially the low-coupon mortgages, but there was also a slight revival of interest in United States Government Liberties and treasuries at higher prices.

Atchison general 4s, which led the rails yesterday, retained their gain. Baltimore and Ohio first 5s, Pennsylvania Consolidated 4½s, New Haven 4s, St. Paul 4½s, New York Central 4s and Wabash 4½s were taken on an upward price movement, while Denver and Rio Grande 5s, International Great Northern adjustment 6s and 5s gained about a point.

Armour and Company 5½s, Republic Brass 6s, Consolidated Coal 5s and International Cement 5s were strong spots in the industrial group. Utilities, however, showed few changes.

The convertible list saw a maximum spurt of six points in International Telephone 4½s and a three-point rise in American Telephone 4½s. American I. G. Chemical 5½s, Atchison 4½s and American International 5½s improved fractionally.

Foreign obligations were in somewhat better favor. French Republic 7s, Argentine Government obligations and German Agricultural Bank issues gained.

The New York Central Railroad's $10,200,000 issue of 4½ per cent. Equipment Trust Certificates, offered to yield 5.15 to 6 per cent, was quickly over-subscribed.

Bankers Satisfied By Noranda Tour

Toronto, Oct. 10 (Meharey-Roe Service)—Stobie, Forlong & Co. report that a very influential party of business men have just returned from a visit to Noranda. Included in this group were two officials of the Royal Bank of Canada and others from Montreal and Toronto. Some big blocks of wealth were represented in the other personnel of the party.

They reported themselves as more than satisfied with the investigation and the growing immensity of the Noranda development. It is believed that the result of their investigation satisfying knowledge may combat the particular group in the street that talks about dragging Noranda lower marketwise.

Gramophone Pays 60 Per Cent For Year

London, Oct. 10.—Gramophone Ltd. has declared a final dividend of fifty per cent, making a total of sixty per cent for the year, against fifty-five per cent in the previous year.

LAKE SHORE RISE OF 2.00 POINTS HEADS RECOVERY IN TORONTO MINES

(By H. E. Hunnings & Co. Limited)

Toronto, Oct. 10.—With the snap that was displayed by some of the stocks in Wall Street to-day, as an example before it, the Toronto mining market showed much life to-day.

Led by Lake Shore, anumber of the leaders moved upward in an encouraging way.

From a close yesterday at 21.00-21.50, Lake Shore made a 2.00 point gain to 23.25.

Amulet from 302-304 yesterday sold as high as 3.15 to-day.

Sherritt-Gordon gladdened the hearts of thousands of holders across the country by raising twenty-five points to 7.25.

Big Missouri recovered five to nine points to the 1.00 level.

The western oils were all much stronger.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Unofficial advices are that Noranda's production increase to 2,000 tons may come by November 15.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Sherritt Gordon's new working shaft is an incline on the hanging wall of the ore body and is 31½ feet by eight feet, and through this shaft the bulk of the ore for the mill will be drawn. The first two levels will be at 200 and 500 foot horizons.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Wright Hargreaves is pushing exploration and development on several levels. On the 500 foot, ore has been found south of the shaft and shows a length of 320 feet where values are cut. On the south vein there is 220 feet of ore on the 1,370 foot level, and 600 feet of ore in the 1,500 foot level.

Teck Hughes ore on the 22nd level is showing a width of 12 feet of high grade in the foot wall zone, with a total mineralized width up to 150 feet.

Latest from Amulet is that Drill Hole No. 234 has cut 14 feet more high grade, making 28 feet in all this lens encountered at about 140 feet depth. In the old workings it is said that in enlarging a station at the main shaft, new ore of unknown quality was cut into.

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

New York, Oct. 10.—Whitney of the Wall Street Financial Service to-day says:

UP AGAIN TO-DAY

"You were advised to expect a higher market Wednesday and this is what developed, despite an abortive attempt to raid the market during the noon hour, bearing out predictions here. Both time and call money continue to decline, with call money at the lowest ratio, which has been witnessed since August of last year, and funds actually loaning in the outside market as low as 4½ per cent. I expect a continuance of the current improvement in to-day's market and give no thought to the loans statement which will appear after the close. Our own estimate is that the loans statement will show a decrease of approximately $200,000,000, which will be plenty considering the fact that the reduction in loans lags perceptibly behind the actual decline in the market.

"It was demonstrated in yesterday's market, to the satisfaction of even the bear party itself, that the market can be no longer raided with success. There is no other conclusion to arrive at than that the period of hesitation following the first recovery is over and the advance for the final quarter of the year under way.

COMMENT

"Another seasonal reduction in gasoline, bringing an extra day of hesitancy to the oil group, presents us today with perhaps the last good buying opportunity which we will have in this group. The issues favored are well known, so buy them.

"Among the issues which have been dealt with at length here would direct attention, in particular to the following at this time, Corn Products, which has been recommended since it sold at 90 is within striking distance of a new record. The original objective set on this issue was 140. This objective will be materially surpassed, so consider that below 120 the stock is still a purchase.

"Pullman is in approximately the same position as Corn Products, namely, on the threshold of a new record, continue to buy it under 100.

"I still consider Johns-Manville a good purchase under $200 a share and Radio is still within the buying range, under 90 a share.

"The short interest in American and Foreign Power has reached such proportions as to make the position more than uncomfortable. Attempted retirement of this short interest will be accompanied by a radical squeeze before the week is over.

"American Bank Note has recorded a new top, but has still more than $45 a share to go before consideration should be given to profit-taking.

"Continue the purchase of Houston Oil while it remains below 95 and of Byers Pipe, particularly while it remains below 175. These issues are simply digesting advances which were made in the face of the September reaction, will resume their advance without notice, and, consequently, must be purchased during the consolidation period."

LINDBERGH FLIES

Miami, Fla., Oct. 10.—Reluctant to leave the scene of his aerial explorations in the Yucatan jungle, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh headed his plane back into the wilds to-day for further brief glimpses before returning to the United States. He was still expected to return here to-day, however.

STRUCTURAL STEEL TAKING MOST NICKEL

New York, Oct. 10—"Nickel now finds its greatest use in structural steel," is the heading of an article in the Engineering and Mining Journal.

Various uses are estimated on an output of 40,000 tons of nickel a year. Armor plate ordnance equipment, which used to be nickel's only market, now takes 4,000 tons of the total output.

WILL SET NEW JAM STANDARDS

Harry Beach of Holsum Packing Company Limited Leaves For Ottawa

Sulphur Process For Strawberries Subject of Conference There

Harry Beach, manager of Holsum Packing Company Limited, left to-day for Ottawa to attend a conference of Government officials and jam manufacturers on October 18.

"The meeting that I am to attend," stated Mr. Beach to-day, "is to set new standards of quality for jams. Some manufacturers have been turning out a rather poor product, using very little fruit and a quantity of added fruit juice or pectin, which is concentrated apple juice."

Mr. Beach will go into the question with Government officials at Ottawa regarding the sulphur process for strawberries. At the present time the amount of sulphur necessary to preserve strawberries properly is greater than the pure food laws of Canada allow, and can only be shipped to the country whose laws permit of the higher amount.

The sulphur process, Mr. Beach stated, eliminates the necessity of freezing, and the cost of putting down strawberries by this method is very small compared with the frozen fruit, and commands a much better price.

Sulphur strawberries are selling at sixteen cents a pound in England at the present time, whereas the frozen fruit is little in demand at much lower prices, he said.

The sulphur process for preserving fruit for jam purposes is the latest method known to science, and will keep the fruit for any length of time in its natural state, except to temporarily bleach the fruit, which returns to its natural color when cooked with sugar.

Three New Mines Ship to Smelter

Nelson, B.C., Oct. 10.—Three custom mines made their initial shipments of the year to the Trail Smelter of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada during the period of October 1 to October 7 inclusive, according to figures just issued by the company offices at Trail. The new mines bring the total of custom mines which have shipped to the smelter since the first of the year to sixty-nine and with ten mines shipping a total of 613 tons during the week the total shipments from the sixty-nine customs mines were boosted to 23,934 tons.

Revenue Mine at Zwickey led the newcomers with a shipment of forty-two tons while the Midnight Mine at Rossland made twenty-seven tons, its initial shipment. The California at Republic, Wash., was the other new mine shipping, contributing eight tons.

Montezuma at Zwickey, making its second week's shipment of the year, added thirty-five tons.

McAllister at Three Forks led all shipping for the seventh week in succession, contributing 219 tons. Cork Province at Zwickey was second with eighty-three tons and Ruth at Sandon a close third with eighty-two tons.

Company mines shipments for the year were boosted to 406,508 tons with the receipts of 10,705 tons during the week. The combined total of custom and company mines for the year is now 429,421 tons.

Department Store Sales Up 2 Per Cent

New York, Oct. 10.—Department store sales for September were 2 per cent. more than in the corresponding month a year ago, according to the preliminary reports made to the Federal Reserve system by 529 stores.

Increases in total sales were reported by 224 stores and decreases by 305 stores. The change in sales varied considerably for different parts of the country, ranging from an increase of 6 per cent. in the Kansas City Federal Reserve district to a decrease of 5 per cent. in the Minneapolis district.

Steel Soars 13 Points On Surprise of Tonnage Gain; Brokers' Loans $91,000,000

New York, Oct. 10—Brokers' loans for the week show a decrease of $91,000,000, according to the statement issued after the close to-day.

"I have never seen such a difference in opinion in Wall Street on the loan estimates as there was to-day," H. P. Bliss said. "I heard estimates ranging from $50,000,000 to $500,000,000 decrease. There was only one point upon which there seemed to be agreement and that was if the decrease were not well over $100,000,000, it would be quite a disappointment."

There was no change in the rediscount rate of six per cent.

At the close the Dow Jones average of thirty industrials stood at 352.86, up 6.30 points for the day; and for twenty rails at 177.76, up 2.27 points for the day. The big rise in the industrials was caused by the unexpected spurt in U.S. Steel common, which was followed by a number of other big issues.

Sales for the day totalled 3,995,400 shares.

SOMETHING DOING IN CHRYSLER

New York, Oct. 10—It is understood that Goldman Sach's interests are participating actively in a new group which has become active in Chrysler.

Although the stock fails to evidence it, there has been fnside buying of Chrysler recently and a special development in connection with the Dodge department is expected soon.

CITIES SERVICE MELON

New York, Oct. 10—Cities Service Company is offering common stockholders of record November 7, the right to subscribe to one additional share for each ten held at 45 a share, the right to expire on November 30.

New York, Oct. 10.—Wall Street was taken absolutely by surprise to-day when the publication of the unfilled tonnage figures of the U.S. Steel Corporation showed an increase instead of the predicted decrease.

The immediate result was a wave of buying which threatened to demoralize the short interest in the market and which, while at first confined principally to U.S. Steel common, spread widely through the industrial list in the afternoon.

Steel common shot up more than 12 points from 218¼ to 231, and closed at 230¼, a gain of thirteen points from its last close.

As against the predicted decreases of 300,000 tons, the Steel Corporation statement showed an increase of 244,370 tons in unfilled orders during September, from 3,658,211 on August 31, to 3,902,581 on September 30.

Last month the figures for August showed a decrease of 439,966 tons.

Shorts were thrown into demoralized retreat by the Steel figures, as a large short interest had been built up in the stock and some of these shorts to-day took severe punishment.

Among the other stocks stimulated directly by the rise in Steel common were Bethlehem, which rose five points and General American Tank Car.

Timken made a new record high at 132 508.

National Biscuit, American Tobacco, Western Union, Industrial Alcohol, also made new highs.

The oils turned dull, with Standard Oil of New Jersey off a fraction.

The motors were easy again, with Graham Paige and Brockway dropping to new lows for the year.

Money was easy, dropping from a renewal rate of six per cent to five per cent in the afternoon.

The result of to-day's price advances in the higher priced industrials will be to help strengthen speculative confidence in the near future.

Despite active profit-taking in Steel and other leaders, the day's best prices held in force late in the afternoon, with pivotal shares maintaining a strong tone.

MIRROR ADVICE

The Wall Street Mirror to-day issued the following to its clients:

"In addition to easing money rates, the belief is expressed that the steel industry is once again on the way up. The worst is believed to have been discounted by the low of 206 for Steel. From this time on the stock will reflect improved business conditions.

"Chemical stocks continue well bought. The very best sort of buying is noted in Union Carbide and U.S. Industrial Alcohol. Do not forget that Air Reduction is a big holder of Industrial Alcohol.

"Equipment shares are scheduled to do much better from now on. There has been a decided turn for the better in this industry and the stocks should reflect this change.

"Payment of a big stock dividend is ahead for Underwood Elliott.

"Increase in the dividend on Magma Copper is close at hand.

"The next quarterly dividend on General Motors will be $1 a share."

Bank May Finance Zeppelin Service

Berlin, Oct. 10.—Charles Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank, now in Berlin, says that the National City Bank is contemplating financing various industrial enterprises in Germany, including a proposed transatlantic Zeppelin service.

C.N.R. EARNINGS

Montreal, Oct. 10.—The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the nine-day period ending September 30, 1929, were $7,415,536, as compared with $6,518,224 for the corresponding period of 1928, a decrease of $1,102,668 or thirteen per cent.

EGGS STILL ON UPWARD TREND; NEW APPLES IN

Although fresh extras remained at the same price on the wholesale and retail egg markets of the city, first and pullet extra grades went up two cents in price on both stalls at the beginning of the week. They are now retailing at fifty-four and fifty-two cents a dozen, while the jobbers are buying them at forty-four and forty-eight cents in the same grades respectively. A further increase is expected.

On the fruit market Okanagan Jonathan apples made their first appearance yesterday and found a ready sale. The fruit is of excellent quality and fine coloring. McIntosh Reds are still coming into the city in fair quantities, and, as usual, are being sold quickly.

CRANBERRIES IN

Although the Thanksgiving season is some time off, a large sale of cranberries, which came into the city from the east yesterday, is anticipated here. The berries are also of high standard.

A small carload of Ashcroft potatoes is due to reach Victoria at the end of the week. Owing to the fact that growers in that district sold a great dea. of their produce as early potatoes, few of the matured tubers are left.

On the retail fruit stalls a few local canteloupes, honey-dew and casaba melons are being offered. The fruit is of very fair quality, but comes in only in small quantities.

Meat prices remain at a steady level with no indications of an immediate change.

Capt. Thain Instals New Officers For His McBride Club

After Battle Club Settled Down in New Quarters and Officers Are Installed

Capt. H. S. Thain's McBride Conservative Club moved up last night to the Amphion Hall from the Conservative headquarters where it has been meeting since the big battle in the club's Broad Street hall, which resulted in someone running off with the charter, and Capt. Thain forming his own club.

Capt. Thain last night installed the officers of his club for the year, and then had President Hugh Allan read his speech from the throne, in which he said:

"With regard to provincial affairs, I am happy to remind you that just over a year ago a Conservative Government was placed in power and that we are now happily, if but newly, embarked upon that era of prosperity and sound administration for which the people of this Province have waited so long. The problem arising out of the mistakes of the Liberal regime and out of the needs of the present are many and complex, and the solutions which are being pursued will be brought before you, as these are matters of interest to all active Conservatives."

Mrs. Frances A. Walker, deputy speaker, was presented with a life membership in the club.

A message of condolence will be sent to Mrs. F. F. Osborn on account of the death of her brother.

A debate followed on the question of calling an inter-Empire trade conference.

Capt. Thain installed the officers as follows: Hugh Allan, president; O. J. Boulton, vice-president and honorary counsel; J. Ivan Seabrook, secretary; J. McNair Paterson, treasurer; Mrs. F. F. Osborn, Mrs. Frances Walker, Arthur Manson, J. T. Braden, J. F. Bates and Capt. H. S. Thain, executive.

Dancing followed.

Auto Production Eases After Beating 1928 Total Already

Detroit, Oct. 10.—Having exceeded the total production of 1928 in the first nine months of this year, the automobile industry has entered the fourth quarter with operations showing a logical recession, according to Automobile Industry.

Whether curtailment this month will bring the total October output to a figure below that of October last year, when factories of the United States and Canada turned out 413,830 cars and trucks, is problematical in the face of the situation in September of this year, when for the first time in the year production fell below that for the corresponding month of last year.

ITALY PREPARES REPLY TO NAVAL CONFERENCE NOTE

Rome, Oct. 10—Mussolini held a meeting with two of his Ministers to-day to make an examination of the naval disarmament conference invitation received from the British Government on Tuesday.

The two Ministers were Dino Grandi, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Guiseppe Siriani, Minister of Marine.

He reviewed the similarity of the British Empire and the United States in their attitude towards maintenance of law, abandonment of force as a means of settling differences within their territories and advocacy of international peace.

PERILOUS PROBLEM

His lordship pointed out that the freedom of the seas had been a vital factor on which fundamental differences between the two nations had existed. Twice the verge of war had been touched, and for the first two years of the Great War this danger had been serious.

Britain had acted on the basis that it must dominate the sea lanes in time of war, because of the narrow margin between starvation always existent. The Great War had shown that great fleets do not exist to fight each other, but for purposes of blockade.

The British argued that their dominance of the seas had been used for advancement of freedom and to put down autocracy. The United States had always opposed the British view, taking the position that neutrals were entitled to freedom of trade in non-contraband of war with all belligerents. This attitude had been maintained since the days of President Jefferson, who considered that, for neutrals, the existence of a condition of war should not be recognized.

The speaker pointed out that, in recent years, this attitude of the United States had been intensified, due to the increased importance of her foreign trade. He also quoted United States authorities who believe submarines to have made blockade impossible. Senator Borah voiced opinion of a large element in the United States when he advocated acquisition of a supreme navy as a means to attain compliance with the views of his country, if negotiations were unsuccessful he said.

Mr. Justice Murphy said that the United States navy was to-day one of the two greatest marine forces in the world, and he questioned whether that country would give up use of that weapon in the event that a war, to which it was not a party, should hazard its commerce through the effects of an attempt at blockade.

CHANGED CONDITIONS

His Lordship showed that to-day nations at war enlisted their whole populations, and as a result almost all supplies came within the classification of contraband. Conditions had changed since the days when the privilege of waging war was an attribute of kingship, and when neutrality was a practical method of standing aside from a struggle.

To-day, if two great nations engaged in war, within a few months almost all the peoples of the world became involved. War of this character means that civilization itself was imperilled, he pointed out.

Discussing the effect of the labors of the League of Nations, Mr. Justice Murphy showed that the covenant did not outlaw war. The League had been strengthened by the Kellogg Pact, although no means were available to enforce the agreement not to use wars as a means of national policy.

Proposals for an embargo on trade with an offending nation, were subject to criticism, it being difficult to ascertain the aggressor, a fact shown by the inquiries still proceeding as to the faulty party to the Franco-German war.

NAVAL AGREEMENTS

The speaker reviewed the agreements between Great Brittain and the United States as to naval forces, later conferences having lost sight of earlier agreement for parity in naval forces. A diplomatic blunder was made by British statesmen when, with France, they presented to the United States a proposal favoring naval forces earlier refused. As a result the United States had promptly authorized a heavy cruiser construction programme.

"Fear will never slacken so long as there is competition in naval armaments," the speaker warned, telling of recent rapprochements between Britain and the United States, following conversations opened by Ambassador Dawes. The British people, by a majority of over 5,000,000 votes resolved that new efforts to better conditions should be made, and His Lordship quoted Prime Minister MacDonald's statement that Britain should lead in efforts to reduce naval armaments and attain international agreement on these lines.

NO EASY TASK

"From what I have told you, you will realize that it is no easy task which Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and Mr. Hoover have undertaken," he said, remarking that his reason for discussing the problems involved rested in the necessity that public opinion must support, in both countries, any arrangement made by the national leaders.

"Every citizen is a potent power for good or evil in Anglo-American relations," he stressed.

"There are two sides to this question of the freedom of the seas and if it is looked at fairly agreement will make possible the outlawry of war. I appeal to you to use your influence towards attainment of a good understanding. Let us so act that we will be able to say, 'Tis not in mortals to command success, we'll do better, we'll deserve it'," he concluded.

WHEAT POOL DECLARES PRICE NOT TO BE CUT

erations and possibly have not been pleased over the situation. But in spite of criticism the Wheat Pool is maintaining its position that Canadian farmers can not afford to take lower prices for their wheat.

SHORTAGE PREDICTED

"Taking everything into consideration, it is manifest that there will be a shortage of wheat and that there is no reason for Canadian wheat to decline to the levels fixed by the unbusinesslike marketing systems of other exporting countries."

Winnipeg, Oct. 10 (Canadian Press)—Guided by a ten-day-old system of car rationing on the prairies, the eastern Canadian and prairie grain storage problem today pursued the even tenor of its ways. Farmers piled prairie elevator bins a million bushels higher and reviving Great Lakes shipments pulled lakehead storage half a million bushels down from its rising aggregate.

Meanwhile, prominent grain men in Fort William and Calgary expressed opinions that reflected little optimism for the wheat shippers. It would be six weeks before European demand for North American wheat would increase, commented E. A. Ursell, expert of the Board of Grain Commissioners, in a report issued at the lake head last night. But Mr. Ursell believes the present lake movement, if continued, will prevent further congestion at the head of the lakes.

TO THE MARKET

The present problem is not one of storage, but of getting wheat on the market and getting a return from it, believes J. A. Meharg, general manager of the Panama-Pacific Grain Terminals Limited of Victoria, B.C. At Calgary, Mr. Meharg spoke of the necessity of forwarding as large as possible a share of the crop beyond the lake head before freeze-up, so as to take advantage of the May market.

IN THE ELEVATORS

At 72,670,000 bushels, storage in the elevators at Port Arthur and Fort William this morning was half a million bushels below the record of the previous day. Five steamers yesterday had carried eastward 1,140,000 bushels. The lakehead bin capacity is 86,000,000 bushels.

A 200,000-bushel increase in elevators at Canadian National Railway points brought storage on the two lines at prairie points, to 71,537,000 bushels, close to one-half of capacity.

Loadings showed an increase for the day to 963 cars, but marketings on both lines fell off some 50,000 bushels to 3,216,000 bushels.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL," ETC.

Brent recovered himself and smiled. That smile cut through Helen's newfound sense of freedom like a knife, destroying it almost instantly. She knew that behind it lay his determination to hold her to her promise at any cost.

CHAPTER XXXI.

"Have you lunched?" Brent said suprisingly.

This time Helen succeeded in getting to her feet. "No," she cried. "I'm going back to Bramblewood.

Brent's smile still held. "To that puppy Ennis, I suppose"

Helen disdained to answer.

"Lunch with me," Brent said half commandingly before she had moved far away. "We haven't talked to the end of this thing and I know you won't be so unfair as to leave it in the air, Helen."

"What more is there to say?" Helen protested.

"A great deal," Brent quietly returned. "Will you lunch with me?"

"Not here in your apartment," Helen declared, thinking of the lunch Carmel had prepared.

"Wherever you like," Brent compromised.

"Sherry's?"

Brent nodded.

Helen gathered her things together while Brent got his hat and stick and they left immediately.

Ten minutes later at Sherrys, they were seated at the most secluded table available. There were people within earshot of them, but the cosmopolitan air of detachment that pervades New York's eating places isolated them sufficiently to permit Brent to plead his case.

But all that he could find to say left Helen cold. Finally, as she feared he would, he brought up the subject of her loyalty to him.

"You couldn't have been too fine to do that, could you?" she said when he mentioned the years of care he had given her. "To think of making me pay for something you did for my father, your friend, I mean."

"You weren't too fine to forget it for a showy hero," Brent retorted.

"That's not fair," Helen objected. "I came to you only to ask you to let me go, because I certainly wouldn't have considered it fine to keep you in ignorance of . . . of . . ." she stopped, her face suffused with vivid color.

"Your infatuation for Ennis," Brent supplied with a note of contempt in his voice.

"Call it what you will," Helen replied. "But listen to me. I've thought of all you have done for me, and I am grateful. I wouldn't have broken our engagement without your consent, but when I saw you kiss that woman . . ."

"Carmel," Brent interjected. "Forget her, Helen. She isn't worth a thought from you."

"Oh yes she is," Helen said swiftly. "I shall never cease being grateful to her."

"Then you really think you can put me aside for Ennis?" Brent's voice was crisp as cracking ice.

Helen met his question with a ready answer. "Even if there had been no one else—for me," she said, "I would not marry you now, Leonard. I don't think we ever could understand each other. It's a mistake for people of such different ages to marry. I'm sure of that. You see, I don't want to live with the ashes of your past, or feel that one-half of you is devoted to me as to a creature from another world, while the other half is absorbed with the habit of other women. I want to grow up with the man I marry—to be the only feminine habit he has."

She could not help smiling tenderly over her recollection of Bob's way with women. Nothing of the weary exhaustion of the world there. Even his ruthless epithet—that he had hurled at her the night before—had lost its sting now that she had hope of not deserving it in the slightest degree.

"Bosh," Brent said impatiently. He realized, that he could no longer woo Helen. In a way it was a relief to give up trying. There remained pressure and—if necessary—threats. He decided to use pressure—and not to be too gentle about it.

"Do you really think there is any advantage in discovering things for yourself when there is someone at hand to give you the right answer?" he asked.

"What do you mean?" Helen asked in turn.

"I mean that you will eventually—no matter what you do—come down to earth," Brent explained. "There isn't any unalloyed happiness—no ointment without a fly. Dreams are only dreams, Helen. That's simple as A B C. When they become reality they are no longer dreams. Indisputable, isn't it? But often the awakening is painful. I can spare you that. My experience of life—discount it as you will—can be a bulwark for you if you will let it. Why climb to heights from which you must tumble down when there is someone to tell you that nothing exists in the clouds?"

"I might not follow in your path," Helen suggested, a bit scornfully.

"There is only one path, or at least one destination," Brent replied. "Disillusionment. Why bother, Helen? Your little boy friend, if he is potentially a man, will come to be like the rest of us. There will be other women for him and if he does not accustom himself to taking them lightly it will be only so much the worse for you. There should be only one woman with whom a kiss is a kiss; with the others it may be a pleasant little exercise, an amenity, a social grace. What of it? Shall there be no pansies or daisies because roses bloom in the garden? Don't you see, dear? With Carmel," he shrugged, "why dignify the thing? It is only those who hold a place in our thoughts that matter. And nothing is ever farther from my mind than Carmel when she is out of sight.

Helen had a rather sickening feeling that this man's soul had died and that only an attractive husk remained.

"I still think," she said, "that I prefer to live my life at first hand, and make my own mistakes if any must be made."

Brent did not argue further. "Not one girl in a million would have the vision to see it differently," he said resignedly "or the sense to realize that a man whose wild oats are already sown and not in his system is the better risk."

Helen's lovely pointed chin lifted haughtily. "I do not believe that all men are philanderers," she said icily.

Brent suppressed a smile. "In return for the compliment of my sex let me say that I do not believe that all women are ingrates," he said. "You in particular, Helen."

Helen regarded him in dismay. "Then you mean to make me pay, if you can, for what you've done for me?"

"I shall not call it paying," Brent answered mildly. "I believe that I can make you happy when you get over this moonlaf interlude."

"Oh, you are a brute," Helen flared at him.

"Perhaps," he said lightly. "But there are times, my dear, when any man with even an apology of a brain must be brutal. Were I to let you have your way now I should be sacrificing myself only to make you no happier than you will be with me. You have loved me. I do not believe that you have changed. If you had you would have wanted to break our engagement regardless of the loyalty you feel for me."

"Then you don't really believe that I am capable of true loyalty?" Helen broke in.

"My dear, I think true love would have settled the matter for you without coming to me," Brent answered promptly.

"Helen sat back in her chair, feeling most unhappily disturbed. Brent's words were so much in accord with what Bob had said. Was she indeed then not really in love? A thought of last night's sleepless, pain-filled hours brought a twisted smile to the corner of her lips.

"You wouldn't have waited until you had what probably would provoke you into quarreling with me under any circumstances," Brent was going on in his smooth fashion. "You'd have come to me and said it was all off."

"I'm not jealous," Helen answered scornfully.

Brent smiled. "Of course you are, my dear," he told her. "All women are. And yours is the unreasoning jealousy of the cloistered maid. You haven't any rivals in my affections, but if you had you wouldn't know how to handle them. You'd try elimination, forgetting that there are corners in life around which jealous eyes may not peer, but which offer a convenient escape for one who wishes to be unobserved for a period of time."

Helen felt that he was laughing at her. "I don't care to hear any more about your ideas of a man's rights," she said frigidly. "I'm more modern than you are, I think. Certainly there is nothing now in the claim to the kind of freedom you seem to require. It's far more up-to-date to believe in living more, more . . . decently," she finished defiantly.

Brent permitted a mock sigh to escape his lips. "I can't reform," he said lugubriously.

Suddenly Helen's manner changed. "Please take me seriously, Leonard," she besought him. "I could never forget what I saw to-day even if I loved you. We haven't the same viewpoint in the matter at all. Perhaps I am old-fashioned, or maybe I'm just more advanced than you are, but whatever it is I'm not tolerant of looseness."

For a few seconds when she finished speaking Brent held his tongue and his temper; then both broke out.

"Don't be a little fool," he said sharply. "A man's a man, Helen."

Helen drew herself up and gave him a hard straight glance. "You are the fool," she said quietly.

Brent shrugged. "Be that as it may," he replied, "I intend to have you. You owe me a debt that you cannot pay in any other way. I've given the best years of my life to you, Helen. I might have married, but I wanted to be free to live for you, to travel with you and to give you a home. Most women would have resented you. I knew that and the knowledge made me avoid such entanglements. You are too loyal to let me down now. I'm banking on that, and I don't believe I am a fool."

MacDonald Visits Arlington Cemetery

Washington, Oct. 10 (Canadian Press)—To the tomb of the Unknown Soldier of the United States in the Arlington National Cemetery, Premier Ramsay MacDonald yesterday carried his tribute—a wreath of red, white and blue flowers with a background of green leaves.

The wreath bore the brief inscription:

"In memory, from the Prime Minister of Great Britain as a tribute of respect and esteem, this wreath is presented."

Just prior to visiting the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Mr. MacDonald and his daughter, Ishbel, motored out to Mount Vernon and placed a wreath on the tomb of George Washington.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily And Jackie's Wings

Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Once upon a time, when Uncle Wiggily was hopping along the path that led from his hollow stump bungalow on through the woods, he met Jackie Bow Wow.

"Good morning, Uncle Wiggily!" barked the little puppy dog boy.

"Good morning!" answered Mr. Longears, pausing to let Jackie see his pink nose twinkle, which is something rabbits can do but not puppy dogs, though puppies can waggle their tails in a funny way.

"Where are you going, Jackie?" Uncle Wiggily wanted to know.

"To school," barked Jackie.

"Then I'll go with you," offered Mr. Longears. "Oh, I don't mean I'll stop in school to learn any lessons," Uncle Wiggily went on. "But I'll go as far as the Hollow Stump School with you and perhaps wave my paw to the Lady Mouse Teacher."

On the way to school Uncle Wiggily and Jackie saw Charlie Chick, the rooster boy, crowing on top of a fence. And when Charlie had finished crowing he flew down off the fence, crowed once more and then flew up on top of a clothes post before going to school.

"Why, Jackie! What are you thinking of?"

"I wish I could do that!" sighed Jackie.

"Do what—crow?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Why I think your bark is quite as loud and nice as Charlie's crow."

"Oh, I don't care about crowing," Jackie answered. "But I'd like to be able to fly up on top of a post, as Charlie does, and then fly down again."

"Dogs can't fly," said Uncle Wiggily. "They haven't any wings."

"I know they haven't," barked Jackie. "But I wish I had wings and then I would fly. Charlie is smarter than I am."

"Oh, no, he isn't any smarter—he is different," said Uncle Wiggily. "Why, you have four legs and Charlie has only two."

"But he has wings and can fly and I can't," sighed Jackie again.

And the more Jackie thought of it the more he wanaed to have wings like the rooster boy. Though I think a puppy dog with wings wuold look very queer; don't you?

"You had better be content as you are," Uncle Wiggily said to Jackie as they parted at the school steps, the rabbit gentleman to go adventuring and the puppy dog to say his lessons.

But Jackie did not recite his lessons very well that day. He was thinking too much about flying like a rooster. And when the Lady Mouse Teacher asked Jackie how to speel cat, he answered:

"P-l-y."

"Why, Jackie! What are you thinking of?" squeaked Miss Mouse.

"Oh, I want to fly!" barked Jackie.

"You never can fly!" crowed Charlie Chick. "You have no wings."

But when Jackie went home from school that afternoon he made up his mind he would, in some way, get himself a pair of wings and fly up on top of the clothes post.

"There I'll bark instead of crowing," said Jackie to himself. "But first I must get some wings. Maybe Uncle Wiggily will help me."

Jackie hurried over to the hollow stump bungalow and, seeing Uncle Wiggily sitting out on a bench in the sun, asked the rabbit:

"Have you any feathers?"

"Why," said Mr. Longears. "I saw an old feather duster around here the other day. I got Nurse Jane a new one and she threw the old one away. But what do you want of feathers, Jackie? Going to tickle Peetie?"

"No, thank you," softly barked Jackie. But he knew what he was going to do. Wings were made of feathers. There were feathers in the old duster so Jackie would soon have wings.

He went out behind the kennel house where he lived, pulled a lot of feathers from the duster and fastened them to his front legs with some chewing gum that was almost worn out. The feathers spread like a fan and really looked as if Jackie had wings.

"Now I can fly!" barked Jackie. So he stood on the ground in front of the clothes post and tried to flap his feather duster wings to fly up to the top to bark. But of course he couldn't do it.

"What in the world are you up to, Jackie?" called Uncle Wiggily, who hopped along just then.

"I'll show you," Jackie said. "I'm going to fly. But maybe it will be easier to fly down instead of up." So he stood on the topmost of the high back steps and jumped off, at the same time trying to flap his wings as he had seen Charlie Chick do.

But the feathers only fluttered loose from where they were stuck on Jackie with chewing gum, and the puppy dog fell heavily to the earth.

"There, Jackie! You've been silly enough!" said Uncle Wiggily. "You must be content without wings. They aren't for puppy dogs."

"No, I guess not," sadly whined Jackie. So he was cured of trying to fly. And if the dishpan will let the teaspoon go in for a swim I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the bugs' party.

GLORIA SWANSON SINGS OVER NBC NETWORK TO-NIGHT

First Radio Presentation of Screen Star in U.S. to Be Made This Evening

Gloria Swanson's singing and talking voice will be heard for the first time from a United States radio studio on Thursday at 10.30 p.m. eastern standard time (7.30 o'clock local time) through the coast-to-coast hook-up of the Victor hour.

More than forty stations associated with the National Broadcasting Company will carry the songs of the film star to followers of the movies and the radio. Nathanie Shilkret will conduct the accompanying orchestra.

Miss Swanson will sing "Love," a composition of Edmund Goulding and Elsie Janis, and Toselli's "Serenade." These songs are rendered by her in "The Trespasser," her first all-talking picture, and she has also sung them for Victor Records.

Immediately after the broadcast the star will leave New York for Hollywood.

It is not generally known that Gloria Swanson's soprano voice brought her to Los Angeles, not her desire to enter the film world. She studied voice in Chicago and was recommended to a California impresario for further instruction, this advice leading her to Hollywood and the discovery by motion picture directors of her screen prospects. Now, through the RCA Photophone, Miss Swanson realizes her ambition to sing. But her audience is not limited to any concert hall, audible films and radio carrying her songs throughout the world.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

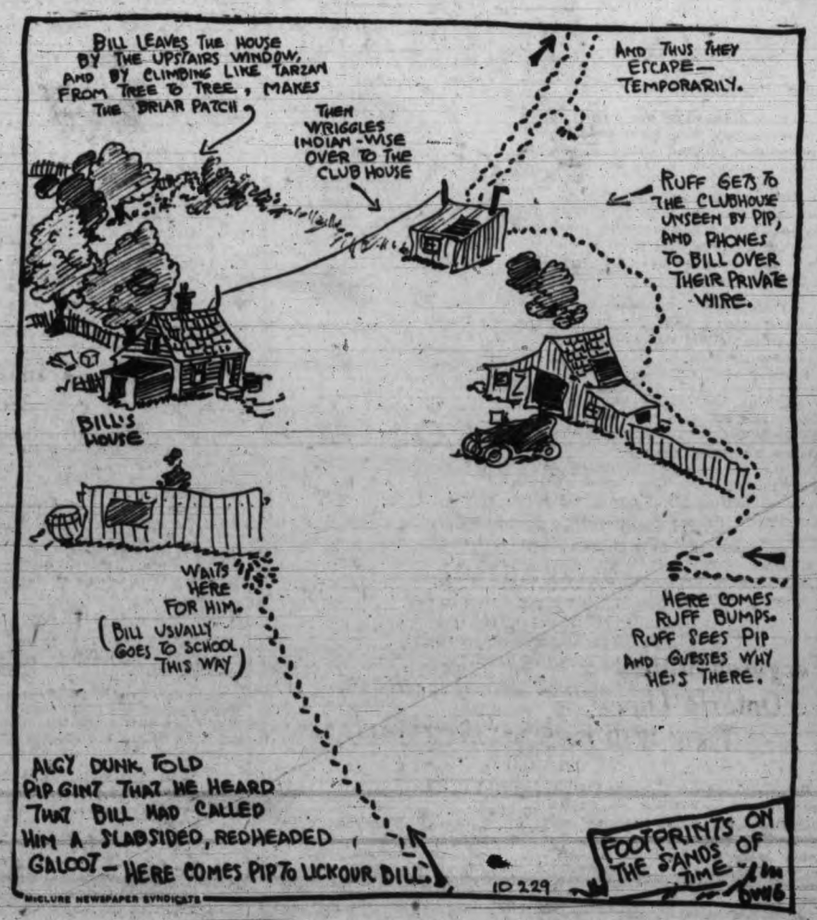
SCHOOL DAYS

—By DWIG



DOROTHY DIX

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—We have four children. My husband is one of the best men, very kind and loving to us all, but he and I differ on one point—educating the children. He earns only a small salary and it has been a hard struggle for us to live, and he thinks the children should go to work as soon as they are through grammar school. I want them to have one or two years in high school and then a course in a business college to fit each of them for life.

Four years ago my eldest girl graduated from public school with honors. Her father said she must find work of some sort, but I insisted on her going two years to high and then saw that she had a business course. It meant more skimping and saving, but she got a good job as soon as she graduated. The usual rate for board and rooms here is $30 per month. I told her that if she would pay me that much I would be satisfied, but her father doesn't think it is fair for her to have so much of her salary left for herself while the balance of us are so pinched for money, but you know how girls want pretty clothes and to have good times. What do you think about this? MRS. X.

Answer—You are very wise in insisting that your children should have as much education as you can possibly give them and in seeing that they are trained for some specific job, because that will affect their earning power as long as they live.

You have a vivid illustration of this in the fact that your young daughter, who has a trade at her fingers' ends, was able at once to get a good situation and that her education enables her to make as much at eighteen as her father earns at middle age. Also, the girl will go on progressing and making more while he has reached his limit.

The first question that girls and boys are asked when they start out to hunt for work is how much education they have had, and so parents should, if they possibly can, put their children through high school and then, at any sacrifice, have them taught some trade by which they can make a living.

I think that technical education comes nearer to solving the financial and moral problems of our day than any other one thing. It is, to begin with, the road to success, because in this day when efficiency is our god there is no room for any but experts. No employer wants to bother with bungling amateurs. Nobody has the time or patience to deal with those who turn out faulty and ill-done work. The untrained find it difficult to get even a chance to work and always have to take the most menial jobs.

And the fat pay envelopes go to the trained and skilful. They invariably command the high wages. They are the ones who are never laid off in slack times. And so it becomes increasingly important, as competition grows closer, for young people to be fitted for thier life work.

One of the great problems of our day is the delinquent young, the boys and girls who will not work and who drift from job to job, staying only a few weeks at any place. The reason for this is that they are unskilled workers who hate the tasks they do so badly, who have no pride of craftsmanship and who have never found the joy that comes in turning out good work.

They never give satisfaction to their employers, hence their working days are made unpleasant by fault-finding and so they grow discouraged and quit. They are always trying to find some new job, some employment that their unskilled hands and untrained minds can perform.

Police records show that most of our criminals are boys and that every year more and more young girls set their feet upon the path that leads to hell. The lack of technical training in gainful occupations does more than anything else to account for this sad state of affairs. These boys and girls crave pleasure and good clothes, the things that you have to have money to buy. They have not the skill to earn enough to supply their wants, and so they steal it or get it by other nefarious means.

So, if I could urge one thing more than any other on parents, it is to have their children taught some way to make a living. Give them a good trade and you have given them a weapon with which to fight the world and take what they want from it. Give them that and you will have done more than anything else to make them useful, law-abiding citizens.

As for how much your daughter should give you out of her salary, that depends upon the girl's generosity. If she pays you for board the usual price in your community, she has dealt fairly with you and given all that you have a right to demand, but she must be a very selfish girl if she spends the balance of her earnings on herself when the family is in such need.

I should think her sympathy for her poor, hard-worked father would prompt her to put her young shoulder under the family load and help him bear it. You have to teach children to give and to be unselfish and to consider their parents, so I would certainly advise you to impress upon yours that it is their duty and their privilege to pay you back for the years of sacrifice you have made for them. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I note that you are very much opposed to early marriages, especially so when the parties have very limited means to start with. My wife and I are celebrating our forty-third anniversary to-day. We married when we were nineteen years of age over the objections of both of our parents. We were very poor and still are, but we loved each other devotedly, and the ensuing years of grinding toil, the rearing of a family of seven children under the most adverse circumstances has only driven us closer together. Now our children are grown and are all upstanding men and women forging their way in the world and devoted to mother and father. Would it be possible to regret our early start? R. F. L.

Answer—In a column such as this is one can only deal in generalities and, taking it by and large, there can be no doubt that very early marriages are a mistake, especially when the young couple have no money.

Naturally there are exceptions from every rule, and despite the fact that statistics show that young marriages result in divorce oftener than any other, there are many boy-and-girl marriages that are successful and that end in the storq-book fashion, "they lived happily ever afterward."

Such a marriage was yours, but it takes more love, more courage, more stamina than many people possess to go through the gruelling ordeal that you and your wife have experienced and come out of it with your romance unscathed and your affection undimmed.

To begin with, you and your wife grew up together and developed along the same lines, and that is the mercy of God that doesn't happen to many couples. Generally, either the husband or the wife outgrows the other and then the marriage ends in divorce or an endurance test. Then, forty-three years ago, young people did not think so much about amusing themselves as they do now.

There were no automobiles, few parties, people expected to drop out of the running when they got married. Women, in especial, expected to dress plainly and stay at home and rear their children. Now the young married set is the gay set and few young married people are content with spending their evenings sitting at home.

And not many young people in these days can stand the acid test of poverty and still keep their love for the one who has brought it upon them. Few girls who have had ease and luxury at home or who have earned good salaries can stand wearing shabby clothes and doing without amusements after they are married. Few young men who have been able to indulge themselves in everything they wanted before they were married can gracefully see their salaries go for paying household bills and skimp along on carfare and cigarette money for themselves.

So I stand by my guns and repeat that early marriages are always hazardous and that it is safest for a young couple to wait until they are old enough to know their own minds about marriage and until they can finance their marriage safely. DOROTHY DIX.

Ferguson States Ontario Liquor Total Will Fall

Brantford, Oct. 10.—Premier G. Howard Ferguson, addressing an election campaign meeting here last night, said he believed Ontario's consumption of liquor under the Government control act would decrease fifty per cent within five or ten years under proper co-operation.

"I venture to say it will be only a few years," he declared, "five, or six or ten years, when drinking will have fallen off by fifty per cent if co-operation is afforded and educative methods are pursued.

"What I hope to see in this province is that old social convention that demands decent conduct in everything, that demands self-control and decency in all conduct, and when we get that we shall relieve the electors of the cost of maintaining a police force and we shall have peace and contentment in this province."

To-morrow's Horoscope

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1929

Astrologers read this as an unfavorable day in planetary government. During the hours of business activity adverse aspects are dominant.

While this configuration prevails there may be a decided discrepancy between the judgment and the policies one follows.

Although the mind may perceive all sides of a business problem there may be an inclination to go against one's best impulses, the seers declare.

It is not an auspicious sway for any sort of initiative and for that reason beaten paths are safest.

Labor is subject to good guidance at this time when the stars presage big opportunities for workers in many fields.

Farmers should find in to-day's market conditions something that is distinctly encouraging, according to the reading of the stars.

Lawyers and litigants should postpone any movement that is decisive while this planetary government continues.

The conjunction of Venus and Neptune is held responsible for British foreign policies which will continue to interest the world with special emphasis.

Great extensions of various units is indicated for the armies of England which will have much activity in protecting persons under its flag in distant lands, the seers prophesy.

Success in financial negotiations in which the United States and Great Britain are interested is prognosticated.

An English astrologer foretells the hasty movement of troops of aircraft, because of riots or disorders.

Much travel to the antipodes is foretold for the closing months of the year. New Zealand will benefit through American capital, it is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is have financial anxieties through loans or mortgages in the coming year, which should be generally prosperous.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly talented. These subjects of Libra usually are favorites among their fellow men and many of them are extraordinarily successful.

Theodore Thomas, famous orchestra leader and musician, was born on this day, 1835. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Dr. Samuel Clarke, 1675, celebrated metaphysician, and James Barry, 1741, noted Irish artist.

PRESENT PRIZES TO GARDENERS

Victoria Horticultural Society Holds Social Time at Crystal Garden

Mayor Herbert Anscomb Suggests Export Sales Drive Through Expert

Prizes won during recent contests were presented to the winners at a supper meeting of the Victoria Horticultural Society, held last evening at the Crystal Garden, with Fred Landsberg in the chair.

Mayor Herbert Anscomb and Mrs. Anscomb, Professor E. M. Straight and Mrs. Straight and Dr. William Newton of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Bazan Bay, were welcomed as guests. Some 200 members attended the affair, which concluded with a social and musical hour.

Mayor Anscomb in a brief address complimented the gathering on the results obtained in bulb growing. It was a matter of surprise to him, he said, that the bulb growers had not marketed more of their product in an export way. There was need, he thought, of a definite selling campaign, with the assistance of an expert salesman to place the product on the market. Island bulbs had a fine reputation and were worthy of a concerted effort in marketing, concluded His Worship.

In the social hour Morris dancing by a group of five little girls, pupils of Miss Clough, was warmly applauded. Miss Dolly Rutledge, E. T. Hughes, "Yorkie," J. Dobie, Miss Eileen Bennett, Mrs. Carter Page, B. Jackson, Miss Mary Warren and H. Whiteoak contributed to an excellent programme of entertainment features.

PRIZES PRESENTED

Mrs. Anscomb presented the prizes as follows:

Class "A," given to gardens consisting of 7,200 square feet—1, V.H.S. Challenge Cup and $12, George Little; 2, $10, F. T. Rawlins; 3, $7, J. Youson; 4, Evan Jones and J. Waring, tie.

Class "B," for gardens less than 7,200 square feet—1, V.H.S. Challenge Cup and $12, T. E. Astley; 2, $10, J. Naysmith; 3, $7, F. B. Robinson; 4, $4, Allen Smith.

Class "C," gardens in which occasional paid help is permitted—1, challenge cup and $12.50, A. Tyrell; 2, $10, Mrs. J. N. de Salis; 3, $7.50, Mrs. C. A. Stele.

The cups in Class "A" and Class "C" have now been won outright by the above winners.

Winners of the various competitive exhibits at the monthly meetings during the last year, the prizes for which were donated by the Hudson's Bay Company through A. J. Watson, as honorary president of the society, were as follows: Albert Smith, J. Naysmith, R. W. Paton, Angus McKay, T. E. Astley, Mrs. E. W. Darcus, A. Tyrell, Mrs. J. Bruce, A. R. Burners, T. Empire Health Week

Co-operating with the Royal Sanitary Institute of London, England, Dr. Richard Felton, City Health Officer, issued the following statement to-day:

"Milk is your best food. How do you keep it? Do you satisfy yourself that it comes from a clean dairy?

"It is also one of the most potent causes of ill-health, if contaminated. Prevent sickness among your children by getting pure milk and keeping it pure.

"Don't be afraid of pasteurized milk; it is safe and not harmful.

"Our city dairies can supply you with properly pasteurized milk. Be safe with the kiddies' food.

"We have, in Victoria, the lowest infantile mortality rate in America, a rate of forty-two a thousand births in 1928. Take advantage of your medical and nursing profession, and of our baby clinic and give the children a healthy start."

FURNACES NEED INSPECTION AS WINTER STARTS

Fire Prevention Week Calls Attention to Danger From Rusted Piping

Fire Prevention Week is still in force and will continue until Saturday. Eternal vigilance is needed. In the fall and early winter special attention should be paid to stove pipes, furnace pipes, smoke vents and flues.

Where these are of metal they frequently rust, come apart, or deteriorate in the summer and when fires are started up in the fall or they are put to severe test during the first very cold weather a blaze is likely to result.

Now that "Fire Prevention" and "Safety First" have become national slogans the importance of careful supervision of flues should be recognized by every citizen and a thorough inspection should always precede the first use of heting apparatus. Fires due to faulty furnace pipes were numerous last season, especially where there was dampness, the dampness rusted the metal so that the pipe, which looked all right on the outside would collapse under the strain. The danger of such pipes in basements, often near wooden partitions and ceilings, is evident, but only a thorough inspection would reveal the interior weakness.

Fire prevention week is organized for the purpose of urging all citizens to examine their premises thoroughly so as to avoid unnecessary conflagration, loss of property and valuable lives.

Here are a few suggestions from the Victoria and District Fire Agents' Association:

Canada has never been licked—except by the flames.

A match has a head but no brains. When you use its head use your brains.

People who live in frame houses, shouldn't throw matches.

Fire prevention protects your home and family.

MAKE TOUR OF PAINT FACTORY

Visit Proves Revelation to Junior Chamber of Commerce Members

The extent of the operations of the British America Paint Company was demonstrated to thirty members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce who were guests yesterday afternoon.

An excellent luncheon was served by the company, after which Herbert Pendray briefly outlined the history of the firm, dating back to the time when the father of Carl and Herbert Pendray started a soap business in Victoria in 1875. The firm entered the paint business in 1899 and there are now branches in Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary and Regina with wholesale branches in Lethbridge, Nelson, Saskatoon and North Battleford.

The capacity of the Victoria plant is 2,000 gallons of paint daily, 20,000 pounds of paste colors, 10,000 pounds of kalsomine and 1,000 gallons of varnish. Preparations are now being made to double the paint and varnish capacity.

A tour around the plant proved a revelation to many of the visitors. The efficiency of every section told its own story of the progress of the firm. A well equipped printing plant proved a surprise to many of the visitors.

Walter Miles, president, and R. Wootton extended cordial thanks to Mr. Pendray for the invitation.

SAYS JAYWALKERS IN VICTORIA ARE MENACE TO SAFETY

J. R. W. Bessonette yesterday afternoon protested to the Police Commission against the prevalence of "jaywalking" in Victoria, declaring conditions to be more serious here than anywhere else in Canada. He asserted that recently he had been compelled to mount a sidewalk and strike a hydrant to avoid hitting a woman, who stopped in mid-street to pull up a stocking.

The commission filed the complaint after ascertaining that, beyond "control," it had no power to direct pedestrian traffic, which has similar rights to vehicles in use of the roadways.

WILL OBSERVE TRAFALGAR DAY

City School Board to Co-operate With Navy League on October 21

The hoisting of Admiral Lord Nelson's famous signal on the giant flagpole at the Parliament Building grounds, will be one of the features of the commemoration of Trafalgar Day, to be carried out under the auspices of the Navy League of Canada, the City School Board was informed last night by Capt. E. G. Alcock, secretary of the Victoria branch.

The board agreed to co-operate with the league by stressing the occasion in city schools on October 21.

A brief routine agenda with the presentation of the weekly accounts was reviewed by the board before going into committee on staff affairs.

Mrs. Kinsey, for many years janitress at Kingston Street School, was superannuated at her own request.

POLICE ENLIST TWO YOUNG MEN

W. Andrews and A. F. Phipps Appointed on Probation By Commission

The Police Commission yesterday afternoon granted the application of Constable George Clare for superannuation, after eleven and one-half years' service, to take effect on December 1. Constables S. T. Dunnell and R. V. Mugford were promoted from probationers to the permanent strength of the force.

Commissioner Staneland desired that steps to fill this vacancy, and one caused by superannuation of Constable George Forster should be delayed until next year, leaving the department one man short during November and two men short during December. This proposal was defeated.

The commission then interviewed a number of applicants, and on recommendation of Chief Fry appointed W. Andrews and A. F. Phipps to the vacancies, both being on six months' probation. The appointees are both less than twenty years of age.

Tenders will be called for supply of ten overcoats and thirty-four pairs of winter trousers for the uniformed force. Chief Fry was authorized to submit vouchers for the customary half yearly clothing allowance to plain-clothes men and shoe allowance for the uniformed force.

The commission will hereafter meet on the second Thursday in each month at 4 o'clock.

Will Fete Soldiers Who Fought During Great Mons Retreat

In honor of the early heroes of the Great War, the British Campaigners' branch of the Canadian Legion will hold a banquet at the Chamber of Commerce on October 26, when Col. W. W. Foster, D.S.O., will speak on "The Retreat from Mons."

At the gathering thirty-nine members of the original British Expeditionary Force from all parts of British Columbia will be feted. These men all served with the "Old Contemptibles" during the early phases of the war, and all took part in some phase of the great retreat. Of the thirty-nine guests, no two served in the same battalion or battery, hence every part of the British line in the early days of the conflict will be represented.

Lieut.-Col. Lorne Ross will take the chair during the meeting.
